

July 9, 2007
Vol. 14, Issue 13

In This Issue:

- The Proposal and Eligibility
- Important Step in a Continued Movement
- Key Considerations
- Emphasis on Standards “As Published by the IASB”

As developments warrant, Heads Up is prepared by the National Office Accounting Standards and Communications Group of Deloitte & Touche LLP (“Deloitte & Touche”). For subscription information, see the back page.

This publication contains general information only and Deloitte & Touche is not, by means of this publication, rendering accounting, business, financial, investment, legal, tax, or other professional advice or services. This publication is not a substitute for such professional advice or services, nor should it be used as a basis for any decision or action that may affect your business. Before making any decision or taking any action that may affect your business, you should consult a qualified professional advisor. Deloitte & Touche, its affiliates and related entities shall not be responsible for any loss sustained by any person who relies on this publication.

SEC Proposes Easing Requirements for Foreign Filings

If Eligible, a Foreign Private Issuer Would Not Reconcile IFRS Financial Statements to U.S. GAAP

The Proposal and Eligibility

The SEC proposes to drop its U.S. GAAP reconciliation requirement for foreign private issuers that prepare financial statements in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs). Here are the proposed eligibility requirements:

- The issuer’s financial statements must fully comply with the International Accounting Standards Board’s (IASB’s) published, English language version of its standards.
- The issuer must make prominent footnote disclosure stating “unreservedly and explicitly” that the financial statements comply with IFRSs as published by the IASB.
- The independent auditor must opine in a similar fashion.

Existing reconciliation requirements stay in place for foreign private issuers that file their financial statements under other sets of accounting standards or do not fully comply with IFRSs as published by the IASB.

The SEC seeks comment by September 24, 2007. To encourage comprehensive input, the proposal contains dozens of questions on which the SEC requests perspective — respondents need not address all of these. The questions relate to the overall approach and considerations made, technical amendments to the SEC’s rules and regulations, IFRSs standard-setting and practice, and general policy areas.

The proposal also seeks input on shortening from six months the filing dates for foreign private issuers using IFRSs. Driven in large part by the need to reconcile to U.S. GAAP, foreign issuers (unlike domestic filers) currently have an additional three months to file their financial statements with the SEC.

Important Step in a Continued Movement

Under a variety of current rules adopted in 1982, a foreign private issuer whose SEC-filed financial statements are prepared on a non-U.S. GAAP basis of accounting must identify and quantify material differences between non-U.S. and U.S. GAAP (and applicable SEC rules and regulations). Reconciliation requirements have helped the SEC simultaneously satisfy two important policy concerns: (1) investors' need for consistent information and (2) the public interest served by a variety of investment opportunities, including foreign securities.

In encouraging the acceptance of global accounting standards and reducing regulatory burdens, the SEC has recognized that information required by IFRSs may be adequate for investors even if that information is not the same as information required under U.S. GAAP.

According to the proposed rule, over the long term the SEC hopes to "help investors to understand investment opportunities more clearly and with greater comparability than if they had to gain familiarity with a multiplicity of national accounting standards." In 2005, the SEC's then chief accountant developed an "IFRS Roadmap," with the goal of achieving a single set of high-quality, globally accepted accounting standards. The proposed rule is an important step toward that goal.

Sometime later this summer, look for the SEC to release an even more intriguing proposal, at least for U.S. companies. In a planned concept release, the SEC is expected to seek feedback on whether U.S. domestic issuers should have the choice of preparing their own financial statements in accordance with IFRSs (see Deloitte & Touche's May 14, 2007, Heads Up).

Key Considerations

What will prompt the SEC to drop the reconciliation requirement? The proposed rule identifies the following three important considerations:

- Continued progress toward convergence between U.S. GAAP and IFRSs as published by the IASB — the SEC places particular significance on the robust process for the joint development of high-quality IASB and FASB standards.
- Consistent and faithful application of IFRSs as opposed to a multiplicity of standards "under the same name." The proposed rule identifies the SEC's ongoing reviews of IFRSs-based filings, a March 2007 roundtable, and the regulatory framework designed to identify and address inconsistent and inaccurate applications of IFRSs internationally as important factors in evaluating this consideration.
- The IASB's sustainability, governance, and continued operation in a stand-alone manner.

Emphasis on Standards "As Published by the IASB"

Some companies apply so-called jurisdictional variations of IFRSs, disclosing, for example, that "the accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards as applied in Country X." The proposed amendments would not apply to issuers using a jurisdictional or other variation of IFRSs. An issuer that does not state unreservedly and explicitly that its financial statements comply with IFRSs as published by the IASB, or for which the auditor's report does not similarly opine, would continue to be required to provide a U.S. GAAP reconciliation. The SEC staff noted during its reviews of IFRSs filings that audit firms generally have not opined on compliance with IFRSs as published by the IASB.

The SEC staff believes that a "multiplicity of divergent standards using the same name" does little to achieve the benefits associated with a single set of globally accepted standards.

Subscriptions

If you wish to receive Heads Up and other accounting publications issued by the Accounting Standards and Communications Group of Deloitte & Touche, please register at www.deloitte.com/us/subscriptions.

Dbriefs for Financial Executives

We invite you to participate in Dbriefs, Deloitte & Touche's webcast series that delivers practical strategies you need to stay on top of important issues. Gain access to valuable ideas and critical information from webcasts presented each month on:

- Sarbanes-Oxley.
- Corporate governance.
- Private companies.
- Financial reporting.
- Driving enterprise value.
- Transactions and business events.

Dbriefs also provides a convenient and flexible way to earn CPE credit — right at your desk. Join Dbriefs to receive notifications about future webcasts at www.deloitte.com/us/dbriefs.

On July 17 at 2:00 PM EDT, we will host a 60-minute webcast, "Quarterly Accounting Roundup: An Update of Important Developments." Register for this webcast today.

Technical Library: The Deloitte Accounting Research Tool Available

Deloitte & Touche makes available, on a subscription basis, access to its online library of accounting and financial disclosure literature. Called Technical Library: The Deloitte Accounting Research Tool, the library includes material from the FASB, the EITF, the AICPA, the PCAOB, the IASB, and the SEC, in addition to Deloitte's own accounting manuals and other interpretive accounting guidance.

Updated every business day, Technical Library has an intuitive design and navigation system that, together with its powerful search features, enable users to quickly locate information anytime, from any computer. In addition, Technical Library subscribers receive Technically Speaking, the weekly publication that highlights recent additions to the library.

For more information, including subscription details and an online demonstration, visit www.deloitte.com/us/techlibrary.

About Deloitte

Deloitte refers to one or more of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu, a Swiss Verein, its member firms, and their respective subsidiaries and affiliates. Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu is an organization of member firms around the world devoted to excellence in providing professional services and advice, focused on client service through a global strategy executed locally in nearly 140 countries. With access to the deep intellectual capital of approximately 135,000 people worldwide, Deloitte delivers services in four professional areas—audit, tax, consulting, and financial advisory services—and serves more than 80 percent of the world's largest companies, as well as large national enterprises, public institutions, locally important clients, and successful, fast-growing global growth companies. Services are not provided by the Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu Verein, and, for regulatory and other reasons, certain member firms do not provide services in all four professional areas.

As a Swiss Verein (association), neither Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu nor any of its member firms has any liability for each other's acts or omissions. Each of the member firms is a separate and independent legal entity operating under the names "Deloitte," "Deloitte & Touche," "Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu," or other related names.

In the U.S., Deloitte & Touche USA LLP is the U.S. member firm of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu, and services are provided by the subsidiaries of Deloitte & Touche USA LLP (Deloitte & Touche LLP, Deloitte Consulting LLP, Deloitte Financial Advisory Services LLP, Deloitte Tax LLP, and their subsidiaries) and not by Deloitte & Touche USA LLP. The subsidiaries of the U.S. member firm are among the nation's leading professional services firms, providing audit, tax, consulting, and financial advisory services through nearly 40,000 people in more than 90 cities. Known as employers of choice for innovative human resources programs, they are dedicated to helping their clients and their people excel. For more information, please visit the U.S. member firm's Web site at www.deloitte.com/us.