Biographies: IFRS Conference Day Two and Special Interest Workshops

Roger Arner joined DBS Bank as Managing Director and Chief Credit Officer in April 2006. He has more than 30 years of experience in institutional banking, both as a relationship manager and as a credit manager, in various major financial institutions. From 1992 to 1999, he was with J.P. Morgan & Co. first based in Japan as Managing Director, overseeing the global credit business for the Asia-Pacific region and then as Managing Director in New York, where he was Senior Credit Officer for Global Credit, Corporate Risk Management Group. In 2000, Arner was Managing Director with Moody's Investor Service and played a key role in New York as the global co-ordinator for the rating assessment service and Manager of Loan Rating Product Marketing. Arner holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics and Urban Studies from Haverford College, and a Masters in Business Administration from the University of Pittsburgh, USA.

Professor Mary E Barth was appointed as a part-time member of the International Accounting Standards Board in January 2001. She is Joan E. Horngren Professor of Accounting and Senior Associate Dean for Academic Affairs at the Stanford University, Graduate School of Business. Her research focuses on financial accounting and reporting issues, particularly those relating to global capital markets and of interest to accounting standard-setters. Her research is published in a variety of journals and has won several awards, including the Wildman Medal Award, the Competitive Manuscript Award, and, on two occasions, the Best Paper Award of the Financial Accounting and Reporting Section of the American Accounting Association. Professor Barth has also received awards for her teaching and service to the profession, including the Distinguished Teaching Award from the Stanford University Graduate School of Business, the Alumni Distinguished Service Award from the Boston University School of Management, and the Outstanding Educator Award from the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants. Professor Barth has been active in accounting standard-setting activities for many years, having served as a member of the Accounting Standards Executive Committee of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the Financial Accounting Standards Advisory Council of the Financial Accounting Standards Board, and the Financial Instruments Task Force of the Financial Accounting Standards Board. She has also been active in the American Accounting Association, having served as Vice-President and as Chair of several committees, including two with a standard-setting focus. Professor Barth has also served as an Associate Editor of The Accounting Review and on the editorial boards of several other academic journals in Australia, China, New Zealand, the UK and the US. She has been a speaker at doctoral consortia in the US and Australia, and at annual meetings of the Chinese Accounting Professors Association and the Accounting Association of Australia and New Zealand. Before joining the faculty at Stanford in 1995, she was an Associate Professor at Harvard Business School and an audit partner in Arthur Andersen & Co. Professor Barth is a Certified Public Accountant and holds an AB from Cornell University, an MBA from Boston University, and a PhD from Stanford University.

Professor David Boymal is full-time Chairman of the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB). The AASB is the Commonwealth statutory body responsible for setting accounting standards for companies, not-for-profit entities and the public sector. He was responsible for achieving a smooth transition to the adoption by Australia of international accounting standards for Corporations Act reporting entities. He also has a central role in the harmonisation of Government Finance Statistics and Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) for the public sector. Professor Boymal has been involved in both Australian and international accounting standard-setting. From 1991 to 1999 he served as a part-time member of the AASB and, during the latter part of that period, held a standing appointment as the Board's Deputy Chairman. Previously he had been a member of predecessor accounting standard-setting boards and, from 1988 to 1990, was the only Australian on the International Accounting Standards Committee, predecessor of the present-day International Accounting Standards Board. He is a past National President of CPA Australia and more recently from 2001 to 2002 was the Australian representative on the Board of the International Federation of Accountants. Professor Boymal recently retired as a senior partner of Ernst & Young after a long and distinguished career with the firm.

Michael E Bradbury was appointed to the IFRIC in November 2004. He is professor of accounting in the Faculty of Business of Unitec the School of Accountancy at Massey University in Auckland, New Zealand. As a professor of accounting since 1981, his work has focused on financial reporting, financial statement analysis, financial management, and research. In addition to his academic work, Professor Bradbury has extensive standard-setting experience. Since 2000, he has served as a member of the Financial Reporting Standards Board of New Zealand and, in that capacity, has served on several working groups related to the adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards in New Zealand. In 2001 he received the Accounting Association of Australia and New Zealand's Outstanding Contribution to Practice Award.

Tony Coleman is the Chief Risk Officer and Group Actuary of Insurance Australia Group (IAG), the largest general insurer in Australia and New Zealand. He is a past President of the Institute of Actuaries of Australia and prior to joining IAG 6 years ago was a Senior Partner with PricewaterhouseCoopers. Tony has a diverse range of experience having worked during his career in a major life insurance company and a bank, as well as in a professional consulting environment. He is also a member of the IASB's Insurance Working Group.

Julie A Erhardt is a Deputy Chief Accountant at the US Securities and Exchange Commission. As such her responsibilities include resolution of accounting and auditing issues, rulemaking projects, and oversight of private sector standard-setting efforts and regulation of auditors. The focus of Julie's work is on international matters. Before joining the SEC, Julie was a Sloan Fellow at the Graduate School of Business at Stanford University, and before that a partner at Arthur Andersen. At Andersen Julie worked first in the audit practice and then held financial reporting policy and practice consultative roles at Andersen's headquarters. Julie also served as a Practice Fellow at the US Financial Accounting Standards Board and, on an interim assignment, at the International Accounting Standards Board. Julie received her Masters degree from Stanford University and her Bachelors degree from Michigan State University. (Speaker subject to confirmation)

Robert P Garnett was appointed to the International Accounting Standards Board in January 2001. Immediately before then, he was Executive Vice-President: Finance for Anglo American plc, one of the world's largest mining companies. He was a member of the South African Accounting Practices Board and served as a committee member on IASC's project on extractive industries. Mr Garnett qualified as a chartered accountant with Peat Marwick Mitchell in 1972, subsequently acting as Technical Director of the South African Institute of Chartered Accountants (1982-1984). Following a return to the practising profession as a partner in Arthur Andersen's financial consulting practice in Johannesburg (1984-1987), he joined a Southern African venture capital group to head its investment management operations, primarily in healthcare and pharmaceuticals (1987-1991). As a member of the Investment Analysts Society of Southern Africa, his next move was as General Manager of Finansbank, then a leading South African merchant bank (1991-1994). After that he joined Anglo American with responsibilities in both London and Johannesburg.

Liz Hickey is Director of Technical Activities at the International Accounting Standards Board. She has held that position since May 2005, and prior to that was the Director of Education for the IASC Foundation from August 2003. Her earlier professional career includes 15 years as technical partner for a major accounting firm in New Zealand, and 2 years in her own specialist practice providing accounting opinions. Liz was a member of the Financial Reporting Standards Board of New Zealand from 1990 to 2002, and its chairman from 1996. In 2002 and 2003 she served as chairman of the Accounting Standards Review Board, the government body whose role is to approve financial reporting standards for application by business entities and the public sector in New Zealand. From 1992 to 2003 Liz was a member of the New Zealand Securities Commission, the securities market regulator.

Warren McGregor was appointed to the International Accounting Standards Board in January 2001. Before joining the Board, he was a founding Director of Stevenson McGregor, a boutique accounting practice specialising in financial reporting and accounting standards. Before that, he was for 10 years the Chief Executive Officer of the Australian Accounting Research Foundation (AARF), the body that until 30 June 2000 was responsible for providing technical support to the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB) in the development of Australian Accounting Standards. From 1983 to 1999, he attended meetings of the IASC as Technical Adviser to the Australian delegation. He was Chairman of the IASC's Insurance Steering Committee. Warren was a founding member of the G4+1 Group of national accounting standard-setters.

Paul Pacter holds two concurrent positions, Director of Standards for Small and Medium-Sized Entities (SMEs) at the International Accounting Standards Board in London, and Director, Global IFRS Office of Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu in Hong Kong. The goal of his IASB work is to develop an IFRS that reduces the financial reporting burden on SMEs. His responsibilities at Deloitte include responding to client technical questions, writing an IFRS newsletter called IASPlus, and managing the website www.iasplus.com. He worked for the IASB's predecessor in London 1996-2000, managing projects on financial instruments, interim financial reporting, segment reporting, discontinuing operations, extractive industries, agriculture, and electronic financial reporting. He also developed the IASC's website. Previously, Paul worked for the US Financial Accounting Standards Board for 16 years, and, for seven years, was Commissioner of Finance of the City of Stamford, Connecticut. Paul was Vice Chairman of the Advisory Council to the US Governmental Accounting Standards Board (1984 to 1989) and a member of GASB's pensions task force and FASB's consolidation task force. He has published over 100 professional monographs and articles. He received his PhD from Michigan State University and is a CPA. He has taught in several MBA programmes.

Edward W Trott was a member of the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) from October 1999 to June 2007. Formerly a Partner of KPMG LLP, he began his career with the firm in 1968 in Greensboro, North Carolina and also worked in the Tampa, Florida and the firm's national office during his career. He headed the Accounting Group in the firm's national office 1992-1999. He is a former member of the FASB's Emerging Issues Task Force (EITF) and the Financial Reporting Committee of the Institute of Management Accountants. He has served as a member of the FASB's Advisory Council (FASAC) and as a member of the American Institute of CPAs' Accounting Standards Executive Committee (AcSEC). He earned a bachelor's degree from the University of North Carolina and an MBA from the University of Texas.

Professor Sir David Tweedie was appointed Chairman of the International Accounting Standards Board with effect from 1 January 2001. Sir David was educated at Edinburgh University (BCom 1966, PhD 1969) and qualified as a Scottish Chartered Accountant. He was appointed Technical Director of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Scotland in 1978 and moved from there in 1982 to the position of national technical partner of the then Thomson McLintock & Co. In 1987 his firm merged with Peat Marwick Mitchell & Co and he was appointed national technical partner of KPMG Peat Marwick McLintock. In 1990 he was appointed the first full-time Chairman of the (then) newly created Accounting Standards Board, the committee charged with the responsibility for producing the UK's accounting standards. He is a visiting Professor of Accounting in the Management School at Edinburgh University. He has been awarded honorary degrees by eight British universities, the ICAEW's Founding Societies Centenary Award for 1997 and the CIMA Award 1998 for services to the accounting profession.

Michael Wells leads the education initiative of the IASC Foundation. He qualified as a South African chartered accountant with Ernst & Young before being seconded to the firm's Detroit office. He subsequently joined the academic world and became the Associate Professor responsible for the financial accounting section of a South African university. He also served as an independent evaluator of professional qualifying examinations.

Connie Wong is a Director for insurance ratings in Asia (excluding Japan/Korea) at Standard & Poor's. She leads a team that analyses and assigns credit ratings to insurance and reinsurance companies across Asia. Connie joined Standard & Poor's as a senior analyst in 2000, and was previously responsible for both insurance and bank credit analysis. Before joining Standard & Poor's, Connie spent several years working in the reinsurance industry in London and Hong Kong. Connie graduated from London's City University Business School with a Bachelor's degree in Investment and Financial Risk Management, and from Leicester University with a Master's degree in Business Administration.

Tatsumi Yamada was appointed to the International Accounting Standards Board in January 2001. Until his appointment, he was a Partner of ChuoAoyama Audit Corporation (PricewaterhouseCoopers), Japan. He was also a member of the Business Accounting Deliberation Council and the Financial System Council on Insurance subcommittee. In addition he was a member of the Executive Committee of the IASC and a member of the Japanese delegation at the Board of IASC. Mr Yamada represented Japan on the Financial Instruments Joint Working Group of Standard Setters and was a member of the former IAS 39 Implementation Guidance Committee. In 1990-3, he was seconded to Corporation Finance Research Institute (COFRI), as manager in charge of Research and Development of Financial Accounting Standards, which involved a working knowledge of International Accounting Standards, US GAAP and UK Financial Reporting Standards. Previously he had worked for the Sumitomo Corporation in Japan and the UK.
