

International Accounting Standards Committee Foundation

Trustees

(Asia-Pacific, Europe, North America)

IASC Foundation

The International Accounting Standards Committee (IASC) Foundation is the private sector independent body responsible for the development and promulgation of a single set of high quality international accounting standards. Nineteen Trustees of the IASC Foundation, chaired by Paul A. Volcker, provide oversight for the Foundation and the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB). The IASB is the 14-member body responsible for the development of international accounting standards.

The Trustees of the IASC Foundation wish to appoint as Trustees three individuals with a background as a senior corporate executive who have international experience and are able to command the broad support of the business community in their respective region. One of the new Trustees will be from the Asia-Pacific region, one from Europe, and one from North America. The appointments will be for a three-year term.

Qualified candidates should be committed to the IASB's mission as a high quality global standard-setter, be financially knowledgeable, and be able to meet the time commitment. Trustees are expected to have an understanding of, and be sensitive to, international issues relevant to the success of an international organisation responsible for the development of global accounting standards for use in the world's capital markets.

Trustees' responsibilities include ensuring financing for the organisation; appointments to the IASB, the Standards Advisory Council and the International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee; and general oversight of the organisation.
