SECTION 1

Summary and questions

1.1 This consultation covers two broad areas:

- International Accounting Standards (IAS) infrastructure:
 - changes to the Companies Act 1985 (the “1985 Act”) and the Building Societies Act 1986 (the “1986 Act”) to permit companies and building societies to choose whether to switch to IAS;
 - changes to the 1985 Act and the 1986 Act that are necessary to ensure full effectiveness of the IAS Regulation (eg on sanctions);
- changes to the Acts and the Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) Regulations 1998 (the “1998 Regulations”) to implement the Modernisation Directive.

IAS infrastructure – Companies

1.2 One part of this consultation document concerns Regulation (EC) No. 1606/2002 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 19 July 2002 on the application of International Accounting Standards¹ (the “IAS Regulation”) (attached at Annex A).

1.3 Under Article 4 of the IAS Regulation, companies governed by the law of a Member State, whose securities are admitted to trading on a regulated market in any Member State in the European Union (“publicly traded companies”), will be required to prepare their consolidated accounts on the basis of accounting standards issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB)² that are adopted by the European Commission. This will apply to financial years commencing on or after 1 January 2005. The list of regulated markets at 17 February 2004 is set out at Annex B.

1.4 Under Article 5 of the IAS Regulation, use of adopted IAS can be extended on a permissive or mandatory basis. Following a public consultation in 2002³, the Government decided that GB companies would be permitted to choose whether to switch to IAS or continue to prepare their accounts in accordance with the 1985 Act and UK Generally Accepted Accounting Practice (UK GAAP).

1.5 The proposed amendments to the 1985 Act set out a mechanism for companies to choose IAS, provide that companies that make this choice are able to reverse it only in limited circumstances, and require parent companies to ensure consistency of choice within the group unless there are good reasons against it. They are discussed in general terms at paragraphs 4.2 – 4.9 of Chapter 4.

³ “International Accounting Standards”, 30 August 2002, URN 02/1158. Available at www.dti.gov.uk/consultations.

1.6 These proposed amendments to the 1985 Act, and the changes that are necessary to ensure full effectiveness of the IAS Regulation, are set out in the draft Regulations at Annex D and discussed in detail in Chapter 5.

1.7 The Charity Commission is not aware of any charities that will be required to use IAS under the IAS Regulation. Although the Government has decided that companies not required to use IAS should be given the choice to do so, it also recognises that special circumstances apply to charities and that IAS was not developed with their needs in mind. On balance, the Government believes the arguments favour not permitting charitable companies to choose to use IAS and does not therefore propose to extend this permission to such companies.

Modernisation Directive – Companies

1.8 The other part of this document concerns Directive 2003/51/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 June 2003 amending Council Directives 78/660/EEC, 83/349/EEC, 86/635/EEC and 91/674/EEC on the annual and consolidated accounts of certain types of companies, banks and other financial institutions and insurance undertakings⁴ (the “Modernisation Directive”) (attached at Annex C).

1.9 The Modernisation Directive is designed to bring European accounting requirements into line with modern accounting practices. It requires Member States to make certain changes to national law concerning the form and content of company accounts and the content of the directors’ and auditors’ reports. It also gives Member States options in certain areas.

1.10 The Modernisation Directive must be implemented by 1 January 2005. In Great Britain, this means making amendments to the 1985 Act, by way of secondary legislation.

1.11 The Government’s proposals to implement the Modernisation Directive are discussed in general terms at paragraphs 4.15 – 4.19 of Chapter 4. The proposed amendments to the 1985 Act are set out in the draft Regulations at Annex D and discussed in detail in Chapter 5.

Building Societies

1.12 For the purposes of the IAS Regulation, building societies are covered by the definition of company (see paragraph 3.4), and as a result fall within Article 4 of the IAS Regulation. Consequently, the Government will amend the 1986 Act to ensure that building societies whose securities are admitted to trading on a regulated market in any Member State in the European Union are able to meet the requirements imposed by the IAS Regulation.

⁴ OJ L178/16 of 17 July 2003.

1.13 The Government proposes to permit building societies that do not fall within the mandatory provisions of the IAS Regulation the same choice as companies governed by the 1985 Act. These societies will be able to choose to prepare their accounts in accordance with adopted IAS.

1.14 The Government is also required to implement the Modernisation Directive for building societies. Insofar as the Directive applies to building societies, it is proposed to exercise the Member State options in the same way as for companies. This will involve amendments to the 1986 Act and the 1998 Regulations. These proposals are set out in the draft Order and Regulations for building societies at Annex E and discussed in general terms at paragraphs 4.15 – 4.19 and 4.21 of Chapter 4.

Position of other entities

1.15 For the purpose of the IAS Regulation, industrial & provident societies and friendly societies are also included in the definition of company. HM Treasury intends to issue a separate consultation document later in the year on any changes to legislation for these two categories of entity.

1.16 The Government also intends that the option to use adopted IAS should be extended to Limited Liability Partnerships (LLPs). Appropriate amendments to the relevant legislation will be made in due course.

1.17 The Government also intends that the amendments to be made to the 1985 Act by the regulations at Annex D to implement the Modernisation Directive (the “modernisation amendments”) will apply to LLPs and to certain banking and insurance undertakings (including certain industrial and provident societies and friendly societies) to which Part VII of the 1985 Act is specifically applied. Appropriate amendments to the relevant legislation will be made in due course.

Dividends

1.18 The Government previously consulted on a proposal to amend the provisions in the 1985 Act on presentation and disclosure of dividends⁵. In light of the consultation response to that proposed amendment, the Government is now re-consulting on an amended proposal as part of this consultation. The proposal is discussed in general terms at paragraphs 4.22 and 4.23.

SECTION 3

Background

International Accounting Standards

3.1 The IAS Regulation introduces important changes which will directly affect the way in which certain companies across the EU prepare their financial statements. As a minimum, it will require publicly traded companies governed by the law of a Member State to prepare their consolidated accounts on the basis of accounting standards issued by the IASB that are adopted by the European Commission. To date, all IAS in existence at 1 May 2002 have been adopted with the exception of IAS 32 (Financial Instruments: Disclosure and Presentation) and IAS 39 (Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement). Those standards and other new and revised standards will be considered for adoption by the Commission. The first of the new standards, IFRS 1 (First Time Adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards), has also been adopted. The IAS Regulation will apply to financial years commencing on or after 1 January 2005.

3.2 Member States have the option to extend the application of the Regulation. They may permit or require:

- publicly traded companies to prepare their individual accounts in accordance with adopted IAS;
- some or all non-publicly traded companies to prepare their consolidated and/or individual accounts in accordance with adopted IAS.

3.3 The Government announced on 17 July 2003 that the application of the Regulation will be extended so that:

- publicly traded companies will be permitted to use IAS in their individual accounts; and
- non-publicly traded companies and LLPs will be permitted to use IAS in both their individual and consolidated accounts.

3.4 For the purposes of the IAS Regulation, “company” has the same meaning as in Article 48 (old Article 58) of the Treaty of Rome:

“Companies or firms” means companies or firms constituted under civil or commercial law, including cooperative societies, and other legal persons governed by public or private law, save for those which are non-profit-making”.

3.5 For the purposes of the extension to the application of the IAS Regulation to be effected by the draft Regulations at Annex D, “company” means companies required to prepare accounts by the 1985 Act (although the Government also proposes to extend the application of the IAS Regulation to building societies formed under the 1986 Act and to LLPs and certain banking and insurance undertakings to which Part 7 of the 1985 Act is specifically applied).

3.6 To determine whether they are subject to Article 4 of the IAS Regulation, publicly traded companies need first to establish whether they are required by the 1985 Act (which implements the Seventh Directive on consolidated accounts⁶) to prepare group accounts. If they are, then adopted IAS will apply to such accounts.

3.7 For companies using adopted IAS, either because they fall within Article 4 of the IAS Regulation or because they have chosen to do so under Article 5 as it is to be implemented in the 1985 Act, certain parts of the 1985 Act concerning the content and format of accounts will no longer apply. Other parts of the 1985 Act relating to accounting and reporting will continue to apply. In broad terms, where IAS is used, the detailed requirements of the 1985 Act regarding the form and content of accounts will not apply. However, the basic requirement to prepare accounts, including the circumstances in which consolidated accounts are required, as well as requirements on audit, approval, distribution to members and filing, will continue to apply to all companies. Also, information outside the scope of IAS and required by the 1985 Act to be included in the annual report and accounts, such as information on directors' remuneration and the contents of the directors' report, will not be affected by IAS.

3.8 Guidance from the European Commission on the interaction between the IAS Regulation and the Accounting Directives can be found at http://www.europa.eu.int/comm/internal_market/accounting/docs/ias/200311-comments/ias-200311-comments_en.pdf.

3.9 Statements of Recommended Practice (SORPs) give guidance on the application of UK accounting standards to particular industries or sectors, for example charities, insurance business and investment trusts. Compliance with the relevant SORP is not mandatory but those that do not comply are required (by Financial Reporting Standard 18: Accounting Policies) to explain why. It is likely that SORPs will be less relevant and have a significantly reduced status in an IAS regime. IAS at present includes little or no guidance at a sectoral level similar to SORPs. SORPs may have a useful ongoing role as guidance, but only to the extent that they do not conflict with adopted IAS.

3.10 The Government is aware that there is concern about the ability of companies using IAS to continue to produce Summary Financial Statements as set out in the 1985 Act. Separately from this consultation, consideration will be given to how the concept of Summary Financial Statements can be retained under IAS.

3.11 Ultimately, it would be preferable for all British companies to use the same accounting standards. The impact of the IAS Regulation will be reviewed after 2008 to establish if it would be appropriate to mandate wider use of IAS. This will depend in part on the development of a regime for smaller companies. At present, IAS does not offer a simplified regime for smaller companies comparable to that in the UK. The IASB is currently working on this issue.

3.12 Article 9 of the IAS Regulation gives Member States an option to extend from 2005 to 2007 the deadline for using IAS for two classes of company. This covers companies with listed debt securities only, and companies admitted to trading outside the EU using internationally accepted standards for that purpose. As indicated in the August 2002 DTI consultation document “International Accounting Standards”, the Government does not intend to take up this option.

Modernisation Directive

3.13 EU accounting requirements are based primarily on the four Accounting Directives: that is to say, the Fourth⁷ and Seventh Directives on the annual and consolidated accounts of companies; the Directive on the annual and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions⁸ (the Bank Accounts Directive); and the Directive on the annual and consolidated accounts of insurance undertakings⁹ (the Insurance Accounts Directive).

3.14 The Modernisation Directive amends the Accounting Directives. It is designed to:

- remove conflicts between the Accounting Directives and IAS in existence at the time it was drawn up; and
- ensure that optional accounting treatments available under IAS in existence at 1 May 2002 are available to EU companies which continue to have the Accounting Directives as the basis of their accounts (ie those companies which will not prepare their accounts in accordance with the IAS Regulation).

3.15 The Modernisation Directive also amends the Insurance Accounts Directive to allow Member States to permit or require insurance companies to account at fair value for some of their financial instruments. These provisions will be taken forward with the Fair Value Directive¹⁰, which covers fair value accounting for financial instruments in respect of other companies. The DTI consulted on proposals for implementing this Directive last year¹¹. The Fair Value Directive will be implemented later this year in regulations that will be combined with the final version of the Regulations at Annex D. It is intended that the Fair Value amendments will also have effect for financial years beginning on or after 1 January 2005.

⁹ Council Directive of 19 December 1991 (91/674/EEC) on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of insurance undertakings. OJ L374/7 of 31 December 1991.

¹¹ “Fair Value Accounting”, June 2003, URN 03/960. Available at www.dti.gov.uk/consultations.

3.16 The Modernisation Directive includes amendments to the requirements regarding the annual report (referred to in the 1985 Act and the 1986 Act as the directors' report). These are being dealt with separately for companies and building societies. For companies, there are some similarities between these provisions and the Government's proposals for a statutory Operating and Financial Review (OFR). Therefore, these particular amendments from the Modernisation Directive are being taken forward with the OFR proposals for companies, which will shortly be the subject of a separate public consultation. The intention is that the OFR and directors' report regulations, the Regulations at Annex D and the Fair Value regulations will be brought together as a single statutory instrument later this year. However, for building societies, these amendments to the requirements regarding the annual report are being taken forward as part of this consultation.

3.17 Apart from the amendments to the audit requirements (paragraphs 5.16 – 5.17) and to the circumstances in which companies are required to prepare group accounts (paragraphs 5.11 – 5.15 and 5.18 – 5.19), the amendments covered by this part of the consultation will not directly affect the consolidated accounts of those companies subject to the IAS Regulation (ie publicly traded parent companies) after 2004, because from 1 January 2005 adopted IAS will replace all the detailed accounting provisions of the 1985 Act for such companies. The accounts of any companies that choose to use IAS under the extension of the IAS Regulation will also fall outside the detailed accounting provisions of the 1985 Act (see paragraph 3.7 above).

The ASB's Convergence Programme

3.18 The Accounting Standards Board's (ASB) standards will continue to apply to all UK companies, building societies and certain other reporting entities that do not report under the IAS Regulation (whether directly or by extension). The ASB does not believe it is a credible option, except in the short term, to retain two different sets of standards in use in the UK. It therefore aims to bring UK standards into line with IASB standards. It will be issuing a consultation paper shortly setting out proposals for achieving this.

Taxation

3.19 On 17 March 2004, the Chancellor of the Exchequer confirmed in his Budget (Budget Note REV BN25) the announcement made in his Pre-Budget Report (10 December 2003) that those companies that choose to use IAS in their individual accounts will be able to use those accounts as the starting point for their tax computations, and will not have to prepare separate UK GAAP accounts just for tax purposes.

3.20 The Budget said that Registration will be included in the Finance Bill 2004 to:

- ensure that accounts prepared in accordance with either IAS or UK GAAP will be an acceptable starting point for computing taxable profits;
- ensure the R&D tax rules continue to allow the special reliefs and credits in the year in which expenditure is incurred, whatever the accounting treatment;
- continue the current tax treatment of most hedging arrangements using derivative contracts and foreign currency liabilities; and
- amend the corporate debt and derivative contracts legislation to reflect the changes made by IAS 39 and complementary revisions to UK accounting standards."

3.21 That work is continuing, and further information is available on the Inland Revenue website <http://www.inlandrevenue.gov.uk>.

Charities

3.22 The accounting provisions of Part 7 of the 1985 Act apply to charitable companies. The SORP "Accounting and Reporting by Charities" (published by the Charity Commission in October 2000 and updated in January 2003) supplements accounting standards and other legal and regulatory requirements in the light of the special factors prevailing or transactions undertaken within the charities sector. The SORP applies to charities, however constituted, throughout the UK unless a more specialised SORP applies as in the case of Higher and Further Education Institutions or for Registered Social Landlords. SORPs provide a unified approach to charity sector accounting and are developed to meet criteria laid down by the ASB in conformity with the ASB's code of practice, given in the ASB Statement of 27 July 2000 "SORPs: Policy and Code of Practice". In the UK, the SORP-making body for general charities is the Charity Commission.

SECTION 4

Proposals – Policy

IAS infrastructure

Companies

4.1 Publicly traded British companies that are required to prepare consolidated accounts will be required by the IAS Regulation to prepare those consolidated accounts in accordance with IAS for financial years beginning on or after 1 January 2005. The IAS Regulation is directly applicable in national law without additional implementing provisions, other than those necessary to ensure it is fully effective.

4.2 However, for companies that will be permitted to use IAS under the extension of the IAS Regulation, it is necessary to include specific provisions in the 1985 Act to allow that choice to be made.

4.3 The Government intends that the option to choose IAS will operate separately for individual accounts and for group accounts (where such group accounts are required and are not caught directly by Article 4 of the IAS Regulation). In other words, a parent company can elect to use IAS for its group accounts without having to use IAS for its individual accounts, and vice versa. The Government considers that it would be quite rare for a parent company to choose IAS for its consolidated accounts but not its individual accounts, or vice versa. However, a flexible approach was widely supported by respondents to the 2002 DTI consultation “International Accounting Standards”.

1. Do you agree with the policy that the option to choose IAS should operate separately for individual and group accounts?

4.4 The Government proposes that this choice should be “one way”. In other words, once having chosen to use IAS, companies cannot reverse that choice. This will ensure that companies do not use the permission to misrepresent their position by switching between regimes depending on which shows their performance in a better light. One exception to this is proposed: if a company becomes a subsidiary of an EEA undertaking that does not prepare its individual accounts in accordance with the IAS Regulation. It would not be appropriate to require the subsidiary to continue to use IAS if the parent did not use IAS.

2. Do you agree with the policy that choice of IAS should be one way, with one exception? Do you think there should be any other exceptions?

4.5 The Government believes that it would be desirable for the individual accounts of all companies in a group to be prepared using the same set of accounting standards. This has the benefit of maximum consistency and transparency. The use of different standards within a group could also provide opportunities for tax avoidance.

4.6 However, imposing an absolute requirement for consistency within a group has drawbacks. Individual companies in a group may not all be equipped to switch to IAS at the same time; requiring them to do so could impose an unreasonable burden which would only serve to discourage the use of IAS. There are also definitional issues; a parent company of a group as defined in the 1985 Act might not in every case have sufficient control to force a subsidiary to change its accounting framework.

4.7 The Government therefore proposes including a provision that a parent company shall ensure that the individual accounts of its subsidiary undertakings are prepared using an accounting framework consistent with the individual parent company accounts unless there are good reasons against it. There would be an exception to this provision for parent companies required under the IAS Regulation to prepare their group accounts in accordance with IAS, who choose to present their individual accounts under IAS for consistency. In that case, the parent company need not ensure that all its subsidiaries use IAS, but should still ensure that the subsidiaries are consistent with one another.

4.8 This limited exemption is proposed on the basis that parent companies that are obliged to use IAS for their consolidated accounts should not be deterred from using IAS in their individual accounts. Given that the consolidated and individual accounts will be presented in the same annual report, the use of the same basis for both will avoid unnecessary confusion and have practical advantages in presentation. The Government therefore considers that parent companies that take this approach should not be obliged to switch all of their GB subsidiaries' accounts to IAS as a consequence.

4.9 It is not proposed to extend this exemption to parent companies that will have the choice between UK GAAP and IAS in their consolidated accounts. This is on the basis that such companies will be in a position to switch to IAS at a time of their choosing. The Government considers that such a switch should usually be made at the same time for the consolidated accounts, the parent's individual accounts and the GB subsidiaries' accounts.

3. Do you agree with the policy on consistency of choice within a group?

Building Societies

4.10 The IAS Regulation imposes the same requirements on building societies with publicly traded securities as it does on publicly traded companies; those societies must use IAS for their consolidated accounts. For the purposes of the extension to the application of the Regulation, the Government believes that there should be consistency between companies and building societies. In line with the policy towards companies, it is therefore proposed that building societies should have the option of using IAS (where they are not required to do so) for their consolidated and individual accounts, that the choice to use IAS cannot be reversed and that there should be consistency of choice within a group.

4.11 For companies, there will be an exception to the rule that once a company has chosen to use IAS it cannot go back to preparing its accounts under the 1985 Act (see paragraph 4.4 above). However, because it is not legally possible for building societies to become subsidiaries, there will be no exception provided in these terms to permit building societies to return to the existing accounting regime once they have gone over to IAS accounts.

4. Do you agree with the policy of treating building societies consistently with companies in permitting them to choose to use IAS?

Charitable companies

4.12 There is also a question of whether charitable companies governed by the 1985 Act should be allowed to use IAS. All else being equal, it would be desirable to treat all classes of company in the same way. Increasingly, it is recognised that the same fundamental principles of accounting should be applied both to the profit and not-for-profit sectors.

4.13 On the other hand, IAS has to date been designed for use in the for-profit sector. Particular issues arise in the context of charity accounting. Although charitable companies comply with UK accounting standards, they also follow the extra guidance given in the SORP "Accounting and Reporting by Charities". It is likely that SORPs will be less relevant and or have a significantly reduced status in an IAS regime. IAS does not specifically address certain charity sector transactions, and the direct application of IAS without modifications through a SORP might create interpretational issues in presenting accounts fully and fairly. There are no plans to permit non-company charities to use IAS. Adoption of IAS by charitable companies would therefore be likely to lead to a loss of consistency within the charitable sector. Overall, the effect might be to damage public confidence in the accounting framework for the charitable sector.

4.14 On balance, the Government believes the arguments favour not permitting charitable companies to use IAS in either their individual or consolidated accounts. Therefore, it does not propose to extend the permission to charitable companies.

5. Do you agree that charitable companies should not be permitted to use IAS?

Modernisation Directive

4.15 Directives are not directly applicable in Member States and must be implemented through national law. The Government's general approach to implementing the Modernisation Directive is to facilitate greater convergence between UK accounting standards and IAS, without imposing unnecessary burdens.

4.16 The Directive gives Member States options in seven of its accounting provisions. The Government is proposing to take up two of the options as follows:

- the presentation of items within the balance sheet and profit and loss account must have regard to the substance of the reported transaction or arrangement (originally proposed as part of the implementation of the Fair Value Directive); and
- all companies will be permitted to account for investment property and biological assets at fair value (with fair value changes to be reported in the profit and loss account), in both their annual and consolidated accounts.

4.17 These options are discussed in more detail in paragraphs 5.27 – 5.29 and 5.31 – 5.34 respectively.

4.18 In addition, the Government is now proposing to take up an existing Member State option in the Seventh Directive to exempt a parent company governed by GB law, which is also a subsidiary company of a parent company not governed by EEA law, from the requirement to prepare consolidated accounts, subject to various conditions. This is discussed in more detail at paragraphs 5.11 – 5.13.

4.19 Finally, there are five Member State options the Government does not plan to take up:

- Member States may permit or require additional statements to be provided in annual accounts. The European Commission has specifically identified a cash flow statement as an example of an additional statement. The Government believes that cash flow statements are an important element of financial statements and are generally necessary in order that the statements give a true and fair view. However, as this area is already dealt with in accounting standards, the Government is not proposing to make it a specific legal requirement.

- Member States may permit or require companies to draw up a balance sheet that presents items on the basis of a distinction between current and non-current items, as an alternative to the current balance sheet layouts. The Government considers that this option would cause confusion and lack of consistency in the absence of an accounting standard to clarify its use, and that any benefit from its adoption would be minimal.
- Member States may permit or require companies to present a statement of their performance instead of a profit and loss account, provided the information given is at least equivalent. As the timing of the IASB's project on comprehensive income is uncertain, the Government believes it is inappropriate at the current time to require or permit companies to prepare such statements.
- Member States may permit or require account to be taken of all foreseeable liabilities and potential losses in addition to all liabilities arising. The Government considers that this situation is already sufficiently covered by the current wording in the 1985 Act.
- Member States may permit or require insurance companies to use different valuations for different elements of certain investments. The Government believes that, as insurance standards are in a state of transition, it would be more appropriate to consider this when the situation is more settled.

4.20 Other parts of the Directive that are not being implemented are discussed at paragraphs 4.32 – 4.39.

4.21 In line with the policy of consistency between companies and building societies in accounting matters as far as possible, the Government proposes to deal with the Member State options for building societies in the same way as for companies. The exception is the option discussed at paragraph 4.18; as mentioned previously, it is not legally possible for building societies to operate as subsidiaries of a parent undertaking.

6. Do you agree with the Government's proposals to implement (or not implement, as the case may be) the Member State options in the Modernisation Directive for companies and, where applicable, building societies?

Dividends

4.22 As part of the consultation on implementing the Fair Value Directive, the Government proposed to amend the 1985 Act so that companies would no longer be required to show dividends that did not represent a liability at year-end in the profit and loss account. The proposed amendment attracted considerable comment. Many consultees did not support the amendment as proposed, and there were a number of alternative suggestions.

4.23 The Government has taken account of these comments and now proposes a revised amendment. Rather than paid and proposed dividends, companies will be required to show in the profit and loss account “dividends paid (other than those for which a liability existed at the immediately preceding balance sheet date) or liable to be paid”. In the notes to the accounts, all companies (including small) will be required to show the aggregate amount of any dividends proposed before the date of approval of the accounts, which have not otherwise been shown in the profit and loss account. The revised proposal is still in line with current international practice in this area.

7. Do you agree with the Government’s proposal on dividends?

LLPs, banking undertakings and insurance undertakings

4.24 The Limited Liability Partnerships Regulations 2001¹² apply the accounting provisions in Part VII of the 1985 Act to LLPs. Subsequent amendments to the provisions of Part VII that are applied to LLPs will, unless a contrary intention appears in the later legislation, apply automatically to LLPs.

4.25 The Government’s general policy on LLPs is to treat them in the same way as companies of the same size and sector unless this is clearly inappropriate. It proposes, therefore, that the amendments to be made by the Regulations at Annex D should apply to LLPs, with any necessary modifications.

4.26 Similar considerations apply to those banking and insurance undertakings (including certain industrial and provident societies and friendly societies) to which Part VII is applied by the Bank Accounts Directive (Miscellaneous Banks) Regulations 1991¹³ and the Insurance Accounts Directive (Miscellaneous Insurance Undertakings) Regulations 1993¹⁴.

4.27 Regulations making any necessary modifications in respect of LLPs and banking and insurance undertakings will be made after the Regulations at Annex D.

8. Do you agree that LLPs and banking and insurance undertakings should be treated in the same way as Companies Act companies?

¹³ S.I. 1991/2704.

Regulatory Impact Assessments

4.28 Separate draft Regulatory Impact Assessments for the Modernisation Directive and IAS aspects of the regulations can be found at Annex F. These attempt to identify and quantify the costs and benefits of the proposals.

9. Can you:

(a) identify any costs or benefits for your organisation or more generally resulting from the proposals in this consultation document?

(b) quantify those costs or benefits?

See Annex F for details on costs and benefits.

Provisions of the Modernisation Directive being implemented separately

Articles 1.14, 1.17 and 2.10(a)

4.29 For companies, these Articles are being implemented through the OFR and directors' report regulations (for building societies, they are included in this consultation).

Article 4.2

4.30 These amendments relate specifically to the Lloyd's insurance market and are being taken forward separately by HM Treasury.

Article 4.5

4.31 The provisions on fair value accounting for financial instruments for insurance companies were consulted on in summer 2003 as part of the consultation on implementing the Fair Value Directive. The Fair Value regulations and the Regulations at Annex D will be laid before Parliament as a single set of regulations in the autumn. It is also intended that the Fair Value regulations for building societies and the Regulations at Annex E will be laid before Parliament in the autumn.

Significant provision of the Modernisation Directive not being implemented

Articles 1.1 (individual companies) and 2.7 (groups)

4.32 These Articles in the Modernisation Directive give Member States the option to permit or require additional statements (the European Commission has identified a cash flow statement as an example) to be provided in the annual accounts. UK companies already provide a cash flow statement (other than in limited circumstances where exemptions apply) because of a requirement in UK accounting standards.

Articles 1.6 (1.3, 1.13, 1.21 are linked to Article 1.6) and 3.3 (banks)

4.33 Member States may permit or require companies to draw up a balance sheet on the basis of a distinction between current and non-current items, provided the information given is at least equivalent to that required by the balance sheet formats in Articles 9 and 10 of the 4th Directive (and imported into the 1985 Act). IAS does not include requirements for specific balance sheet formats to be used. In the absence of a generally accepted approach to the presentation of balance sheets on the basis of current and non-current items, taking up this option could cause confusion and reduce comparability. Complication would arise because of the various cross-references in the provisions of the 1985 Act to items in the existing formats. Any benefit from its adoption would be minimal.

Articles 1.8 and 3.4 (banks)

4.34 These Articles give Member States the option to permit or require companies and banks to present a statement of their performance instead of a profit and loss account, provided the information given is at least equivalent (a performance statement might include gains and losses which are currently shown in a statement other than the profit and loss account). As it is presently unclear when the IASB may publish an accounting standard on reporting comprehensive income, it is inappropriate at the current time to require or permit companies to prepare such statements.

Article 1.9

4.35 This Article gives Member States the option to permit or require account to be taken of all foreseeable liabilities and potential losses in addition to all liabilities arising. We believe the current wording in the 1985 Act is consistent with modern accounting practices and that this Member State option might, if taken up, blur the distinction between actual and contingent liabilities for accounting purposes.

Article 1.10

4.36 This Article allows Member States to permit the revaluation of any fixed asset, including intangibles. Paragraph 31 of Schedule 4 already permits intangible assets (other than goodwill) to be included at their current cost.

Articles 1.20, 2.3(a) and 2.12

4.37 Companies whose securities are admitted to trading on a regulated market of any Member State may no longer apply for exemption from certain obligations. This reflects the existing position under the 1985 Act.

Article 1.22

4.38 This amends terminology in the Fourth Directive from “market value” to “fair value”. We believe the two terms have the same meaning for all practical purposes.

Article 4.4

4.39 This Article gives Member States the option to permit or require insurance companies to use different valuations for different elements of certain investments. At this stage, we do not propose to exercise this option. Accounting standards for insurance are in a state of transition and it is considered more appropriate to amend the law when the international position is settled.

SECTION 5

Proposals for companies – Detail

The Draft Regulations

5.1 This section acts as an explanatory note to the draft Regulations, explaining the purpose and intention of each regulation.

5.2 The Regulations are divided into three parts. Part 1 (Regulation 1) is introductory. Part 2 (Regulations 2 and 3) covers amendments to the sections of the 1985 Act, relating to the use of IAS. Part 3 (Regulations 4 – 11) covers amendments to the sections of the 1985 Act to implement the Modernisation Directive and related proposals.

5.3 There are also a number of Schedules immediately following Part 3 of the draft Regulations. Schedule 1 contains consequential amendments to the 1985 Act as a result of accounts being prepared using IAS. Schedules 2 – 6 contain specific amendments to the Schedules to the 1985 Act and Schedule 7 contains minor and consequential amendments as a result of the Modernisation Directive and related provisions. Following consultation, and when they are combined with the Fair Value and OFR and directors' report regulations, consideration will be given to some amalgamation of these Schedules to make them more accessible to users.

Part 1 of the draft Regulations

Regulation 1

5.4 Regulation 1 provides for the Regulations to come into force on the day after the day on which they are made, and to apply to financial years starting on or after 1 January 2005. This includes financial years which would have started on or after that date as a result of a company using the power in section 223 of the 1985 Act to change its accounting year.

Part 2 of the draft Regulations

Regulation 2

5.5 Regulation 2 replaces existing sections 226 and 227 of the 1985 Act (duty to prepare individual and group accounts) with new sections 226 to 226B and 227 to 227C which reflect the fact that some companies will continue to prepare their accounts in accordance with the 1985 Act and others will use IAS as adopted by the European Commission pursuant to the IAS Regulation. Much of existing sections 226 and 227 are re-enacted.

5.6 This regulation gives effect to the Government's policy of permitting choice in use of IAS. New section 226(2) provides that all companies can choose to prepare their individual accounts in accordance with the detailed accounting provisions of the 1985 Act or with adopted IAS. New section 227(2) and (3) reflect the fact that publicly traded companies will be required to prepare their consolidated accounts in accordance with adopted IAS, and provides that non-publicly traded companies can choose to prepare their consolidated accounts in accordance with the 1985 Act or with adopted IAS. Charitable companies will not be permitted to use IAS (section 226(3), 227(4) and 227C(2)).

5.7 Section 227C provides that parent companies shall, in most circumstances, ensure that the individual accounts of the parent company and the individual accounts of subsidiary undertakings (where these are required to be prepared under Part VII of the 1985 Act) within the group are prepared using the same financial reporting framework (ie. either adopted IAS or UK GAAP), unless there are good reasons for not doing so. However, the individual accounts of any undertaking that is a charity do not have to be prepared on the same basis as the other individual accounts in the group. Nor do the individual accounts of the subsidiaries have to be prepared using the same financial reporting framework as those of a parent company where the parent company is required by the IAS Regulation to use adopted IAS for its consolidated accounts, and has chosen to do so for its individual accounts.

5.8 In the interests of consistency and comparability, it is also proposed (in sections 226(4) and (5) and 227(5) and (6)) that companies choosing to prepare their accounts under IAS must continue to do so in subsequent financial years. However, this requirement will not apply if a company preparing accounts under IAS becomes a subsidiary of an EEA undertaking which prepares accounts on a non-IAS basis.

5.9 To aid users of accounts, it is proposed (in sections 226B and 227B) that companies preparing accounts under IAS should be required to disclose this fact in the notes to their accounts.

Regulation 3

5.10 The regulation introduces Schedule 1 to the Regulations which contains consequential amendments to the 1985 Act as a result of accounts being capable of being prepared either under the 1985 Act or under IAS.

Part 3 of the draft Regulations

Regulation 4

5.11 This regulation implements an option in Article 11 of the Seventh Directive, not hitherto exercised in the 1985 Act. Article 11 gives a Member States an option to exempt any intermediate parent company governed by its law from the requirement to prepare consolidated accounts, if that company is a subsidiary of another undertaking not governed by the law of an EEA State, provided certain conditions are fulfilled.

5.12 In order to align the exemptions from preparation of consolidated accounts more closely with those in IAS 27 (Consolidated Financial Statements and Accounting for Investments in Subsidiaries), the Government now wishes to take up this further exemption option in the Seventh Directive. The latest version of IAS 27 allows an exemption from the requirement to prepare consolidated accounts for an intermediate parent company wholly owned by a parent company that draws up consolidated accounts in accordance with IAS (subject to certain other conditions). However, under the 1985 Act, a group of companies whose parent is wholly-owned by a non-EU parent company would be required to prepare consolidated accounts, even if electing to follow IAS and meeting the exemption criteria in IAS 27.

5.13 Regulation 4 inserts new section 228A into the 1985 Act. It provides for the new exemption and sets out the conditions that must be fulfilled for exemption. One of the more important conditions is that the higher parent company presents consolidated financial statements in a manner equivalent to the Seventh Directive. We would expect that, in most circumstances, financial statements prepared on the basis of IAS would meet this equivalence condition. The new exemption will be restricted to wholly-owned intermediate parent companies to be consistent with the conditions in IAS 27.

Regulation 5

5.14 This regulation implements Article 2.6 of the Modernisation Directive, which deletes Article 14 of the Seventh Directive, by repealing section 229(4) of the 1985 Act. Article 14 had provided for the exclusion of an undertaking from the consolidated accounts of the parent if its activities were so incompatible with those of the parent that inclusion would fail to meet the requirement to give a true and fair view of the undertakings included therein, taken as a whole. This provision is in conflict with IAS 27, which does not permit any exclusion on the ground of incompatible activities.

5.15 In addition, we have taken this opportunity to bring the 1985 Act into line with the Seventh Directive by permitting a subsidiary undertaking to be excluded from consolidation where the parent company's interest in it is held exclusively with a view to subsequent resale irrespective of whether or not it has previously been included in consolidated accounts. This also brings the law more into line with the requirements of IAS 27.

Regulations 6, 7 and 8

5.16 These regulations implement Articles 1.15, 1.16 and 1.18 of the Modernisation Directive concerning the audit report of individual companies, and Article 2.11 concerning the audit report of groups.

5.17 By specifying matters to be covered in auditors' reports, Articles 1.15 and 1.18 of the Modernisation Directive seek to achieve greater harmonisation and reflect best practice concerning the format and content of audit reports, which currently differ across Member States. Audit reports prepared in accordance with UK Statement of Auditing Standards 600 already conform very closely to the requirements of the Modernisation Directive. One of the more significant changes in the statutory requirements is that, in future, the auditors will need to identify the financial reporting framework applied in the preparation of the accounts (ie whether IAS or UK GAAP). Regulation 8 amends section 240(d) of the 1985 Act in implementation of Article 1.16 of the Modernisation Directive. This requires disclosure, whenever non-statutory accounts are published, of whether the auditors have drawn attention in their report to any matter by way of emphasis, without qualifying the audit report, as well as of whether the audit report was qualified or unqualified.

Regulation 9

5.18 This regulation implements Article 2.1 of the Modernisation Directive, which is designed to align the Seventh Directive with IAS requirements. Under IAS 27, an undertaking is a subsidiary undertaking if it is controlled by a parent, irrespective of the existence of an interest in the capital of the undertaking. The current requirement in the Seventh Directive for a participating interest to exist is, therefore, removed. Accordingly, the requirement in section 258(4) of the 1985 Act for a participating interest to exist in order for an undertaking to be a subsidiary is also removed.

5.19 The Modernisation Directive did not remove the requirement for a participating interest to exist in the definition of an associate (see paragraph 20 to Schedule 4A to the 1985 Act). On the face of it, it would appear sensible to align the definitions of subsidiary and associate in this respect. Under IAS 28 (Accounting for Investments in Associates), an undertaking is an associate of an investor if the investor can exercise significant influence, irrespective of the existence of a participating interest. The Government would be interested in consultees' comments on this, with a view to future amendments to the Accounting Directives.

Regulation 10

5.20 Regulation 10 identifies the 5 Schedules to the 1985 Act which require amendment to implement the Modernisation Directive and related provisions. The amendments to the Schedules (listed as Schedules 2 – 6 after Part 3 of the draft Regulations) are discussed below.

Schedule 1 to the draft regulations (Regulation 3)

5.21 The necessary minor and consequential amendments to the 1985 Act to take account of the use of IAS are set out in Schedule 1. The significant consequential amendments are discussed below.

Paragraph 8

5.22 This paragraph re-enacts the existing disclosure requirements regarding particulars of staff in paragraph 56 of Schedule 4 to the 1985 Act. It is being removed from Schedule 4 and inserted as section 231A in Part VII of the 1985 Act because these disclosures will also have to be given by a company preparing accounts in accordance with adopted IAS.

Paragraphs 13 and 15

5.23 These paragraphs amend sections 247 and 249 of the 1985 Act regarding the qualification of a company or a group as small or medium-sized. They provide that where a company or group prepares accounts under IAS, it can qualify as small or medium-sized if it meets the threshold requirements on the basis of amounts extracted from accounts prepared in accordance with adopted IAS. At present, sections 247 and 249 refer to specific line items within the accounts formats, which will not apply to accounts prepared under adopted IAS.

Schedule 2 to the draft regulations (Regulation 10(1))

5.24 This amends Schedule 4 to the 1985 Act. Schedule 4 contains the requirements on the form and content of the individual accounts of large and medium sized “ordinary” companies (that is to say, companies which are neither banks nor insurance companies).

Paragraph 2

5.25 This is not part of the package of Modernisation Directive amendments. Rather, it relates to dividends, and is designed to facilitate the ASB’s programme of convergence with IAS. The Government consulted on a previous version of these amendments with the proposals for implementing the Fair Value Directive. The proposal was amended as a result of comments received.

5.26 This part of the draft Regulations amends paragraph 3(7) of Schedule 4 to the 1985 Act, by replacing the requirement for companies to show paid and proposed dividends as separate items in the profit and loss account, with a requirement to show dividends which are paid or liable to be paid at the balance sheet date. However, the amount of any proposed dividend is important for shareholders and other users of accounts. Therefore, it is proposed to introduce a new requirement, as paragraph 3(7A), to disclose in the notes to the accounts the aggregate amount of dividends proposed before the date of approval of the accounts, which have not been shown in the profit and loss account in accordance with the new requirement in paragraph (3)(7)(b).

5.27 This implements Article 1.2 of the Modernisation Directive. Member States may permit or require the presentation of amounts within items in the profit and loss account and balance sheet to have regard to the substance of the reported transaction.

5.28 This is a key element in the convergence of UK accounting standards to IAS in the area of financial instruments. It will permit compliance with IAS 32. The Government proposes to implement this as a requirement rather than a permission so that accounts must reflect the substance of the transaction. It is important that formats do not create excessive rigidity and become an obstacle to presenting items in the most meaningful way.

5.29 The insertion of a new paragraph 5A on presentation of items in Schedule 4 to the 1985 Act amends the existing requirements so that the presentation of items within the formats must have regard to their economic substance.

Paragraphs 4, 5, 9, 10 and 12

5.30 These paragraphs implement Articles 1.4, 1.5, 1.7, 1.9 and 1.11 of the Modernisation Directive. They make minor changes in the terminology relating to provisions to align with IAS 37 (Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets).

Paragraphs 6, 7, 8 and 11

5.31 These paragraphs implement the Member State option in Article 1.12 of the Modernisation Directive. The Fair Value Directive amended the Accounting Directives to permit certain financial instruments to be recorded at fair value in accordance with IAS 39. To deal with future developments, the Modernisation Directive gives Member States the option to extend use of fair value accounting to other asset categories, and to restrict its use to consolidated accounts.

5.32 The IAS on investment property (IAS 40 Investment Property) and living animals and plants (IAS 41 Agriculture) have been adopted pursuant to the IAS Regulation. Therefore, the Government has decided to permit these categories of assets to be fair valued in both individual and consolidated accounts. This will facilitate convergence with IAS, and the optional approach is in line with the proposed policy on fair value accounting for financial instruments.

5.33 New paragraphs 34CA and 45D and amended paragraph 34D of Schedule 4 to the 1985 Act implement this policy, and set out certain rules for the use of fair value in these circumstances. The amendments should therefore be looked at in the context of the draft regulations in the Fair Value Accounting consultation document. The amendments to paragraph 34D ensure that changes in value will go to the profit and loss account. It is intended that the two sets of regulations will be brought together in a single set before they are laid before Parliament.

5.34 The Government will consider extending the use of fair value accounting to other categories of asset as and when any new IAS in this area are adopted.

Schedule 3 to the draft regulations (Regulation 10(2))

5.35 This amends Schedule 8 to the 1985 Act. Schedule 8 contains the requirements on the form and content of the individual accounts of small companies, as defined in section 247 of the 1985 Act. It is a simplified version of Schedule 4, reflecting the fact that, under the Fourth Directive, small companies are entitled to produce simplified accounts for their shareholders.

5.36 The amendments are identical to those made to Schedule 4 by Regulation 10(1) and Schedule 2.

5.37 It is no longer proposed to exempt small companies from the new requirement (in paragraph 2(3)) to disclose the aggregate amount of dividends proposed in the notes to the accounts. In response to the original consultation on the dividends amendment, the majority of respondents felt that small companies should not be exempt from this. It was argued that the amount of proposed dividends could have a significant impact on the finances of small companies and should therefore be disclosed. The burden of giving this disclosure was considered to be minimal.

Schedule 4 to the draft regulations (Regulation 10(3))

5.38 This amends Schedule 8A to the 1985 Act. Schedule 8A contains the requirements on the form and content of the abbreviated accounts that small companies are currently entitled to lodge with Companies House.

5.39 The amendment in paragraph 2 is identical to that made to Schedule 4 by paragraph 4 of Schedule 2.

Schedule 5 to the draft regulations (Regulation 10(4))

5.40 This amends Schedule 9 to the 1985 Act. Schedule 9 contains the special accounting provisions for banking companies and groups.

5.41 The amendments are identical in substance to those made to Schedule 4 by Schedule 2.

Schedule 6 to the draft regulations (Regulation 10(5))

5.42 This amends Schedule 9A to the 1985 Act. Schedule 9A contains the requirements on the form and content of the accounts of insurance companies and groups.

5.43 The amendments are identical in substance to those made to Schedule 4 by Schedule 2.

Schedule 7 to the draft Regulations (Regulation 11)

5.44 This makes the necessary minor and consequential amendments to the 1985 Act as a result of the amendments in Part 3 of the draft regulations and the attendant schedules.

10. Do you have any comments or suggestions on the drafting of the Regulations on companies at Annex D?

SECTION 6

Proposal for building societies – Detail

The Draft Statutory Instruments for Building Societies

6.1 This section acts as a detailed explanatory note to the draft statutory instruments, explaining the purpose and intention of each provision of each instrument. The implementing provisions are spread over two statutory instruments: the Building Societies Act 1986 (International Accounting Standards and Other Accounting Amendments) Order 2004 and the Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) (Amendment) Regulations 2004

The Building Societies Act 1986 (International Accounting Standards and Other Accounting Amendments) Order 2004

6.2 The Order for amendments to the 1986 Act is divided into four parts. Part 1 (Article 1) is introductory. Part 2 (Article 2) covers amendments to sections of the 1986 Act that are necessary to enable building societies to use International Accounting Standards. Part 3 (Articles 3 to 8) covers amendments to sections of the 1986 Act to implement the Modernisation Directive. Part 4 (Article 9) deals with transitional provisions.

6.3 Part 3 (at Article 8) also inserts a Schedule to the Order containing consequential amendments to the Act. This contains a number of minor changes to take account of the use of IAS and to enable the amendments in the whole Order to sit correctly within the Building Societies Act.

Part 1 of the draft Order

Article 1

6.4 Article 1 provides for the Order to come into force on the day after the day on which it is made and that it applies to financial years of building societies starting on or after 1 January 2005.

Part 2 of the draft Order

Article 2

6.5 Previously, one section of the Building Societies Act 1986, section 72, imposed both the obligation to produce individual accounts and the obligation to produce group accounts. This was followed by section 73 on “Contents and form of annual accounts". Article 2 replaces existing sections 72 and 73 of the 1986 Act with nine new sections. Firstly, sections 72A, 72B, 72C and 72D, which deal with the preparation of individual accounts by societies and secondly, sections 72E, 72F, 72G, 72H and 72I which deal with the preparation of group accounts by societies with subsidiary undertakings.

6.6 This Article gives effect to the Government's policy of permitting building societies to choose whether to use IAS in the preparation of their accounts, even if they are not obliged to do so for their group accounts by the IAS Regulation. Section 72A(2) now permits all building societies to choose whether to prepare their individual accounts in accordance with provisions of the 1986 Act and regulations made under it or with IAS. Section 72E(2) reflects the fact that building societies with listed securities will be required to prepare their consolidated accounts in accordance with IAS. Section 72E(3) provides that building societies without listed securities can choose to prepare their group accounts in accordance with the 1986 Act or with IAS.

6.7 Section 72A(2) is subject to section 72I which provides that building societies shall, in most circumstances, ensure that the individual accounts of the building society and their subsidiaries are prepared using the same financial reporting framework (i.e. either adopted IAS or UK GAAP), unless there are good reasons for not doing so. This requirement is limited to those subsidiaries that have to prepare accounts under Part VII of the Companies Act 1985. However, the individual accounts of a building society with subsidiaries, do not have to be prepared using the same financial reporting framework as those of the subsidiaries, where the building society is required by the IAS Regulation to use IAS for its consolidated accounts, and has chosen to do so for its individual accounts.

6.8 In the interests of consistency and comparability, it is proposed in section 72A(3) and 72E(4) that building societies choosing to prepare their accounts (both individual and group accounts) under IAS, must continue to do so in subsequent years with no option of reversal.

6.9 Sections 72B(1) and 72F(1) set out which documents must be contained in individual Building Societies Act accounts and group Building Societies Act accounts respectively. The requirements have not altered from those previously contained in section 72 of the Act, but they are now split into two sections, one for individual accounts and one for group accounts. These sections also contain the requirement for the accounts to give a true and fair view and what steps the directors of a building society may take to ensure that the accounts do give a true and fair view. The provisions relating to a true and fair view were previously contained in section 73 of the Act.

6.10 Sections 72C and 72G, set out the regulation making powers for prescribing the form and contents of Building Societies Act individual accounts and group accounts respectively. Each of these sections also retains the duty for a building society director, officer or employee to provide the information necessary to enable the society to comply with its obligations under the regulations to disclose information about financial interests of or payments to its officers and employees.

6.11 To aid users of accounts, it is proposed in section 72D and 72H that building societies preparing accounts under IAS should be required to disclose this fact in the notes to their accounts.

Part 3 of the draft Order

Articles 3 and 4

6.12 These Articles implement Articles 1.14 and 2.10 of the Modernisation Directive which require more detail to be provided in the annual report and more analysis of risk to be included. The increased detail is required for reports of both individual undertakings and groups of undertakings. Article 3 amends section 75 of the Building Societies Act 1986 in line with the directive requirements. Article 4 inserts a new section 75A into the Act which sets out what the report must contain in terms of review and analysis of the business of the building society and its subsidiaries (if it has subsidiary undertakings). The main change is that the report must now contain a comprehensive analysis of the performance of the business, using key performance indicators where appropriate.

Articles 5, 6 and 7

6.13 These Articles implement Articles 1.15, 1.16 and 1.18 of the Modernisation Directive concerning the audit reports of individual companies, and Article 2.11 concerning the audit reports of groups.

6.14 By specifying matters to be covered in auditors' reports, Article 1.18 of the Modernisation Directive seeks to achieve greater harmonisation and reflect best practice concerning the format and content of audit reports, which currently differ across Member States. Auditing in Britain is in line with best practice, so the amendments required are relatively minor. One of the more significant changes is that, in future, the auditors will need to identify the financial reporting framework applied in the preparation of the accounts.

6.15 Article 5 amends section 78 of the Building Societies Act 1986 to include new requirements for the contents of the auditor's report.

6.16 Article 6 inserts a new section 78A into the Act which is equivalent to the existing section 236 in the Companies Act 1985, in order to implement Article 1.18 of the Directive. This provision requires auditor's reports to be signed and dated by the auditor.

6.17 Article 7 inserts a new section 81A into the Act. This provision is equivalent to one already in the Companies Act 1985 (section 240). It implements Article 1.16 of the Directive and an existing provision of the 4th Accounts Directive which is now applied to building societies. New section 81A requires a building society to include the full auditors' report whenever it publishes its statutory accounts. In addition (in line with the Directive) it requires disclosure, whenever non-statutory accounts are published, of whether the auditors have drawn attention in their report to any matter by way of emphasis, without qualifying the audit report, as well as whether the audit report was qualified or unqualified.

Articles 8 and 9

6.18 Article 8 gives effect to the Schedule to this Order that contains consequential amendments to the Act, made as a result of changes in this Order. Article 9 contains transitional provisions which ensure that existing regulations made under sections 72 and 73 (e.g. The Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) Regulations 1998) continue to have effect and tie in with the newly amended sections of the 1986 Act.

Consequential amendments to the 1986 Act

6.19 The Schedule to the Order contains a number of consequential amendments to take account of the use of IAS and the amendments to the Act to implement the Modernisation Directive. These are minor and self-explanatory apart from the following amendments..

Paragraph 1

6.20 This paragraph amends section 6 of the 1986 Act to allow for the fact that some building societies will now prepare their accounts in accordance with IAS rather than with regulations made under the 1986 Act. The definition of "X" in subsection 2 refers to "liquid assets" and "fixed assets". This terminology is not used in the IAS balance sheet format which instead refers to "current assets" and "non-current assets". The amendment therefore includes the IAS terminology as an alternative.

Paragraph 4

6.21 This paragraph re-enacts the existing disclosure requirements regarding particulars of staff in paragraph 3 of Schedule 5 to the Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) Regulations 1998¹⁵. It is being removed from those regulations and inserted as section 72J in Part VIII of the 1986 Act because these disclosures will also have to be given by a building society preparing accounts in accordance with adopted IAS.

¹⁵ S.I. 1998/504

The Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) (Amendment) Regulations 2004

6.22 These Regulations amend the Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) 1998 (the “principal Regulations”) and deal mainly with implementation of the Modernisation Directive. All the provisions in the main body of the Regulations are implementing changes required by that Directive. There is also a Schedule to the Regulations containing consequential amendments. Some of these consequential amendments are necessary due to amendment of the Building Societies Act 1986 by the Order discussed above. The significant amendments made by these Regulations are discussed below.

Regulation 1

6.23 This provides for the Regulations to come into force on 31 December 2004 and to apply to financial years starting on or after 1 January 2005.

Regulation 2

6.24 This implements Article 2.6 of the Modernisation Directive. It deletes a provision that allowed for an exemption from the requirement to produce consolidated accounts. An undertaking could previously be excluded from the consolidated accounts if its business was so different from that of other undertakings in the group that it would be impossible to give a true and fair view of the group accounts if that undertaking were included. A subsidiary undertaking can no longer be excluded on those grounds.

Regulation 3

6.25 This inserts a provision into the principal Regulations permitting building societies to publish their accounts in ECUs as well as in the currency in which they were drawn up, in line with the requirements of Article 3.1 of the Modernisation Directive. Companies are already permitted to publish their accounts in this alternative currency (see section 242B Companies Act 1985). Now that the Directive requires the same flexibility for financial institutions, this provision, which mirrors section 242B, permits building societies to do the same.

Regulation 4

6.26 This implements Article 3.2 of the Modernisation Directive by altering the title in the layout of the balance sheet so that it no longer refers to “provisions for liabilities and charges” but to “provisions for liabilities”.

Regulation 5

6.27 This implements Article 1.9 of the Directive which removes the requirement to take into account all foreseeable liabilities and potential losses. The amendment to paragraph 4 of Schedule 7 to the principal Regulations means that the accounts need only include actual liabilities from now on.

Regulation 6

6.28 This implements Article 1.2 of the Modernisation Directive which gives Member States an option. Member States may permit or require the presentation of amounts in the accounts to have regard to the substance of the reported transaction. The proposed new paragraph 20A in Schedule 7 to the principal Regulations requires directors to have regard to the substance of the reported transaction in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

6.29 This is a key element in the convergence of UK accounting standards to IAS in the area of financial instruments. It will permit compliance with IAS 32. The Government proposes to implement this as a requirement rather than a permission so that accounts must reflect the substance of the transaction. It is important that formats do not create excessive rigidity and become an obstacle to presenting items in the most meaningful way.

Regulation 7

6.30 This provision inserts new paragraphs into Schedule 7 of the principal Regulations and implements the Member State option in Article 1.12 of the Modernisation Directive. The Fair Value Directive amends the Accounting Directives to permit certain financial instruments to be recorded at fair value in accordance with IAS 39. To deal with future developments, the Modernisation Directive gives Member States the option to extend use of fair value accounting to other asset categories, and to restrict its use to consolidated accounts.

6.31 IAS on investment property (IAS 40 Investment Property) and living animals and plants (IAS 41 Agriculture) have been adopted pursuant to the IAS Regulation. Therefore, the Government has decided to permit these categories of assets to be fair valued in both individual and consolidated accounts. This will facilitate convergence with IAS, and the optional approach is in line with the proposed policy on fair value accounting for financial instruments.

6.32 Article 7 of the Regulations implements this policy, and sets out certain rules for the use of fair value in these circumstances. These amendments should therefore be looked at in the context of the draft regulations in the consultation document on Fair Value Accounting for building societies

(September 2003). It is intended that the fair value accounting regulations will be laid before Parliament close to when these regulations are laid.

6.33 The Government will consider extending the use of fair value accounting to other categories of assets as and when any new IAS in this area are adopted.

Regulation 8

6.34 This implements Article 1.7 of the Modernisation Directive by amending the definition of “provisions for liabilities and charges” in the principal Regulations, so that it sets out the liabilities which ‘provisions’ are intended to cover.

Regulation 9

6.35 This regulation brings the Schedule making minor and consequential amendments to the principal Regulations into effect. As these amendments are merely updating cross-references they are not discussed individually.

REGULATION (EC) No 1606/2002 OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL of 19 July 2002
on the application of international accounting standards

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 95(1) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission ⁽¹⁾,

Having regard to the opinion of the Economic and Social Committee ⁽²⁾,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty ⁽³⁾,

Whereas:

- (1) The Lisbon European Council of 23 and 24 March 2000 emphasised the need to accelerate completion of the internal market for financial services, set the deadline of 2005 to implement the Commission's Financial Services Action Plan and urged that steps be taken to enhance the comparability of financial statements prepared by publicly traded companies.
- (2) In order to contribute to a better functioning of the internal market, publicly traded companies must be required to apply a single set of high quality international accounting standards for the preparation of their consolidated financial statements. Furthermore, it is important that the financial reporting standards applied by Community companies participating in financial markets are accepted internationally and are truly global standards. This implies an increasing convergence of accounting standards currently used internationally with the ultimate objective of achieving a single set of global accounting standards.
- (3) Council Directive 78/660/EEC of 25 July 1978 on the annual accounts of certain types of companies ⁽⁴⁾, Council Directive 83/349/EEC of 13 June 1983 on consolidated accounts ⁽⁵⁾, Council Directive 86/635/EEC of 8 December 1986 on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions ⁽⁶⁾ and Council Directive 91/674/EEC of 19 December 1991 on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of insurance companies ⁽⁷⁾ are also addressed to publicly traded Community companies. The reporting requirements set out in these Directives cannot ensure the high level of transparency and comparability of financial reporting from all publicly traded Community companies which is a necessary condition for building an integrated capital market which operates effectively, smoothly and efficiently. It is therefore necessary to supplement the legal framework applicable to publicly traded companies.

- (4) This Regulation aims at contributing to the efficient and cost-effective functioning of the capital market. The protection of investors and the maintenance of confidence in the financial markets is also an important aspect of the completion of the internal market in this area. This Regulation reinforces the freedom of movement of capital in the internal market and helps to enable Community companies to compete on an equal footing for financial resources available in the Community capital markets, as well as in world capital markets.
- (5) It is important for the competitiveness of Community capital markets to achieve convergence of the standards used in Europe for preparing financial statements, with international accounting standards that can be used globally, for cross-border transactions or listing anywhere in the world.
- (6) On 13 June 2000, the Commission published its Communication on 'EU Financial Reporting Strategy: the way forward' in which it was proposed that all publicly traded Community companies prepare their consolidated financial statements in accordance with one single set of accounting standards, namely International Accounting Standards (IAS), at the latest by 2005.

accounts. The mechanism should be a means to foster common understanding of adopted international accounting standards in the Community.

- (7) International Accounting Standards (IASs) are developed by the International Accounting Standards Committee (IASC), whose purpose is to develop a single set of global accounting standards. Further to the restructuring of the IASC, the new Board on 1 April 2001, as one of its first decisions, renamed the IASC as the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) and, as far as future international accounting standards are concerned, renamed IAS as International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS). These standards should, wherever possible and provided that they ensure a high degree of transparency and comparability for financial reporting in the Community, be made obligatory for use by all publicly traded Community companies.
- (8) The measures necessary for the implementation of this Regulation should be adopted in accordance with Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission⁽¹⁾ and with due regard to the declaration made by the Commission in the European Parliament on 5 February 2002 concerning the implementation of financial services legislation.
- (9) To adopt an international accounting standard for application in the Community, it is necessary firstly that it meets the basic requirement of the aforementioned Council Directives, that is to say that its application results in a true and fair view of the financial position and performance of an enterprise — this principle being considered in the light of the said Council Directives without implying a strict conformity with each and every provision of those Directives; secondly that, in accordance with the conclusions of the Council of 17 July 2000, it is conducive to the European public good and lastly that it meets basic criteria as to the quality of information required for financial statements to be useful to users.
- (10) An accounting technical committee should provide support and expertise to the Commission in the assessment of international accounting standards.
- (11) The endorsement mechanism should act expeditiously on proposed international accounting standards and also be a means to deliberate, reflect and exchange information on international accounting standards among the main parties concerned, in particular national accounting standard setters, supervisors in the fields of securities, banking and insurance, central banks including the ECB, the accounting profession and users and preparers of
- (12) In accordance with the principle of proportionality, the measures provided for in this Regulation, in requiring that a single set of international accounting standards be applied to publicly traded companies, are necessary to achieve the objective of contributing to the efficient and cost-effective functioning of Community capital markets and thereby to the completion of the internal market.
- (13) In accordance with the same principle, it is necessary, as regards annual accounts, to leave to Member States the option to permit or require publicly traded companies to prepare them in conformity with international accounting standards adopted in accordance with the procedure laid down in this Regulation. Member States may decide as well to extend this permission or this requirement to other companies as regards the preparation of their consolidated accounts and/or their annual accounts.
- (14) In order to facilitate an exchange of views and to allow Member States to coordinate their positions, the Commission should periodically inform the accounting regulatory committee about active projects, discussion papers, point outlines and exposure drafts issued by the IASB and about the consequential technical work of the accounting technical committee. It is also important that the accounting regulatory committee is informed at an early stage if the Commission intends not to propose to adopt an international accounting standard.
- (15) In its deliberations on and in elaborating positions to be taken on documents and papers issued by the IASB in the process of developing international accounting standards (IFRS and SIC-IFRIC), the Commission should take into account the importance of avoiding competitive disadvantages for European companies operating in the global marketplace, and, to the maximum possible extent, the views expressed by the delegations in the Accounting Regulatory Committee. The Commission will be represented in constituent bodies of the IASB.
- (16) A proper and rigorous enforcement regime is key to underpinning investors' confidence in financial markets. Member States, by virtue of Article 10 of the Treaty, are required to take appropriate measures to ensure compliance with international accounting standards. The Commission intends to liaise with Member States, notably through the Committee of European Securities Regulators (CESR), to develop a common approach to enforcement.

- (17) Further, it is necessary to allow Member States to defer the application of certain provisions until 2007 for those companies publicly traded both in the Community and on a regulated third-country market which are already applying another set of internationally accepted standards as the primary basis for their consolidated accounts as well as for companies which have only publicly traded debt securities. It is nonetheless crucial that by 2007 at the latest a single set of global international accounting standards, the IAS, apply to all Community companies publicly traded on a Community regulated market.
- (18) In order to allow Member States and companies to carry out the necessary adaptations to make the application of international accounting standards possible, it is necessary to apply certain provisions only in 2005. Appropriate provisions should be put in place for the first-time application of IAS by companies as a result of the entry into force of the present regulation. Such provisions should be drawn up at international level in order to ensure international recognition of the solutions adopted,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 1

DIRECTIVE 2003/51/EC OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL of 18 June 2003

amending Directives 78/660/EEC, 83/349/EEC, 86/635/EEC and 91/674/EEC on the annual and consolidated accounts of certain types of companies, banks and other financial institutions and insurance undertakings

(Text with EEA relevance)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 44(1) thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission ⁽¹⁾,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee ⁽²⁾,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty ⁽³⁾,

Whereas:

- (1) The Lisbon European Council of 23-24 March 2000 emphasised the need to accelerate completion of the internal market for financial services, set the deadline of 2005 for implementation of the Commission's Financial Services Action Plan and urged that steps be taken to enhance the comparability of financial statements prepared by Community companies whose securities are admitted to trading on a regulated market (hereinafter: listed companies).
- (2) On 13 June 2000, the Commission published its Communication entitled 'EU Financial Reporting Strategy: The Way Forward' in which it was proposed that all listed companies prepare their consolidated accounts in accordance with one single set of accounting standards, namely International Accounting Standards (IAS), at the latest by 2005.
- (3) Regulation (EC) No 1606/2002 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 19 July 2002 on the application of international accounting standards ⁽⁴⁾ (hereinafter: the IAS Regulation) introduced the requirement that, from 2005 onwards, all listed companies prepare their consolidated accounts in accordance with IAS adopted for application within the Community. It also provided an option for Member States to permit or require the application of adopted IAS in the preparation of annual accounts and to permit or require the application of adopted IAS by unlisted companies.

- (4) The IAS Regulation provides that, to adopt an international accounting standard for its application in the Community, it is necessary that it meets the basic requirement of the Fourth Council Directive 78/660/EEC of 25 July 1978 on the annual accounts of certain types of companies ⁽⁵⁾ and of the Seventh Council Directive 83/349/EEC of 13 June 1983 on consolidated accounts ⁽⁶⁾, that is to say that its application results in a true and fair view of the financial position and performance of an enterprise — this principle being considered in the light of the said Directives without implying a strict conformity with each and every provision of those Directives.
- (5) As the annual and consolidated accounts of undertakings covered by Directives 78/660/EEC and 83/349/EEC which are not prepared in accordance with the IAS Regulation will continue to have those Directives as the primary source of their Community accounting requirements, it is important that a level playing field exists between Community companies which apply IAS and those which do not.
- (6) For the purposes both of the adoption of IAS and the application of Directives 78/660/EEC and 83/349/EEC, it is desirable that those Directives reflect developments in international accounting. In this respect, the Communication of the Commission entitled 'Accounting Harmonisation: A New Strategy vis-à-vis International Harmonisation' called for the European Union to work to maintain consistency between Community Accounting Directives and developments in international accounting standard setting, in particular within the International Accounting Standards Committee (IASC).
- (7) Member States should be able to modify the presentation of the profit and loss account and balance sheet in accordance with international developments, as expressed through standards issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB).
- (8) Member States should be able to permit or require the application of revaluations and of fair value in accordance with international developments, as expressed through standards issued by the IASB.

⁽⁶⁾ OJ L 193, 18.7.1983, p. 1. Directive as last amended by Directive 2001/65/EC.

(9) The annual report and the consolidated annual report are important elements of financial reporting. Enhancement, in line with current best practice, of the existing requirement for these to present a fair review of the development of the business and of its position, in a manner consistent with the size and complexity of the business, is necessary to promote greater consistency and give additional guidance concerning the information a 'fair review' is expected to contain. The information should not be restricted to the financial aspects of the company's business. It is expected that, where appropriate, this should lead to an analysis of environmental and social aspects necessary for an understanding of the company's development, performance or position. This is consistent also with Commission Recommendation 2001/453/EC of 30 May 2001 on the recognition, measurement and disclosure of environmental issues in the annual accounts and annual reports of companies ⁽¹⁾. However, taking into account the evolving nature of this area of financial reporting and having regard to the potential burden placed on undertakings below certain sizes, Member States may choose to waive the obligation to provide non-financial information in the case of the annual report of such undertakings.

(10) Differences in the preparation and presentation of the audit report reduce comparability and detract from the user's understanding of this vital aspect of financial reporting. Increased consistency should be achieved by amendments, consistent with current international best practice, to the specific requirements concerning the format and content of an audit report. The fundamental requirement that an audit opinion states whether the annual or consolidated accounts give a true and fair view in accordance with the relevant financial reporting framework does not represent a restriction of the scope of that opinion but clarifies the context in which it is expressed.

(11) Directives 78/660/EEC and 83/349/EEC should accordingly be amended. Furthermore, it is also necessary to amend Council Directive 86/635/EEC of 8 December 1986 on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions ⁽²⁾.

(12) The IASB is developing and refining the accounting standards applicable to insurance activities.

(13) Insurance undertakings should also be allowed to use fair-value accounting as expressed through appropriate standards issued by the IASB.

(14) Consequently Council Directive 91/674/EEC of 19 December 1991 on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of insurance undertakings ⁽³⁾ should be amended.

(15) These amendments will remove all inconsistencies between Directives 78/660/EEC, 83/349/EEC, 86/635/EEC and 91/674/EEC on the one hand and IAS in existence at 1 May 2002, on the other,

(a) the comparable amounts determined according to the historical cost accounting rules; or

(b) the differences between those amounts and the corresponding amounts actually shown in the balance sheet in respect of that item.

(4) In sub-paragraph (3) above, references in relation to any item to the comparable amounts determined in accordance with that sub-paragraph are references to -

(a) the aggregate amount which would be required to be shown in respect of that item if the amounts to be included in respect of all the assets covered by that item were determined according to the historical cost accounting rules; and

(b) the aggregate amount of the cumulative provisions for depreciation or diminution in value which would be permitted or required in determining those amounts according to those rules.”

Definition of “provisions for liabilities”

8. In Schedule 11 (interpretation of schedules) in paragraph 9(3) -

(a) for “provisions for liabilities or charges” substitute “provisions for liabilities, and

(b) for “or loss” substitute “the nature of which is clearly defined and”.

Minor and consequential amendments

9. The Schedule to these Regulations makes minor and consequential amendments.

Draft partial Regulatory Impact Assessment on the Modernisation Directive for companies and building societies

1. Proposal

1.1 The Companies Act 1985 (International Accounting Standards and other Accounting Amendments) Regulations 2004, the Building Societies Act 1986 (International Accounting Standards and Other Accounting Amendments) Order 2004 and the Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) (Amendment) Regulations 2004, as they implement the Modernisation Directive⁷¹

2. Purpose and intended effect

(i) Objective

2.1 The Modernisation Directive is designed to bring European accounting requirements into line with modern accounting practices. It requires Member States to make certain changes to national law concerning the form and content of company and building society accounts. It also gives Member States options on whether and how they implement certain aspects of it. This will enable companies and building societies to follow modern, more transparent accounting practices that are consistent with International Accounting Standards (IAS)

2.2 The Regulations will apply to financial years starting on or after 1 January 2005.

(ii) Devolution

2.3 Responsibility for company law matters lies with the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, and for building society law matters with the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Company and building society law are reserved areas under the Scottish and Welsh devolution legislation and therefore any resulting changes to company and building society legislation will also apply in Scotland and Wales. In Northern Ireland, matters arising from the proposal would normally be the responsibility of the Northern Ireland Executive Ministers. Whilst the Northern Ireland Assembly and Executive are suspended, these functions will be discharged by the Northern Ireland Departments subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland.

⁷¹ Directive 2003/51/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 18 June 2003 amending Council Directives 78/660/EEC, 83/349/EEC, 86/635/EEC and 91/674 on the annual and consolidated accounts of certain types of companies, banks and other financial institutions and insurance undertakings. OJ L 178/16 of 17 July 2003.

The Accounting Directives

(iii) Background

2.4. EU accounting requirements are based primarily on the four Accounting Directives: the Fourth Directive on the annual accounts of certain companies⁷², the Seventh Directive on the consolidated accounts of certain companies⁷³, the Directive on the annual and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions⁷⁴ (the Banks Accounts Directive), and the Directive on the annual and consolidated accounts of insurance undertakings⁷⁵ (the Insurance Accounts Directive).

The Fair Value Directive

2.5 The Fair Value Directive⁷⁶ amended the Accounting Directives to permit certain financial instruments to be recorded at fair value in accordance with IAS 39 (Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement). To deal with future developments, the Modernisation Directive gives Member States the option to extend use of the 'fair value' concept to other asset categories, and to restrict use to consolidated accounts.

The Modernisation Directive

2.6 On 6 May 2003 the Council of Ministers adopted the Modernisation Directive. This amends the Fourth and Seventh Directives on annual and consolidated accounts, the Bank Accounts Directive and the Insurance Accounts Directive.

2.7 The Modernisation Directive is designed to: -

- remove conflicts between the Accounting Directives and International Accounting Standard Board (IASB) standards in existence at the time it was drawn up; and
- ensure that optional accounting treatments currently available under IASB standards in existence at 1 May 2002 are available to EU companies and building societies which continue to have the Accounting Directives as the basis of their accounts (i.e. those companies and building societies which will not prepare their accounts in accordance with the IAS Regulation).

72 Fourth Council Directive of 25 July 1978 (78/660/EEC) based on Article 54(3)(g) of the Treaty on the annual accounts of certain types of companies. OJ L222/11 of 14 August 1978.

73 Seventh Council Directive of 13 June 1983 (83/349/EEC) based on Article 54(3)(g) of the Treaty on consolidated accounts. OJ L193/1 of 18 July 1983.

74 Council Directive of 8 December 1986 (86/635/EEC) on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions. OJ L372/1 of 31 December 1986.

75 Council Directive of 19 December 1991 (91/674/EEC) on the annual accounts and consolidated accounts of insurance undertakings. OJ L274/7 of 31 December 1991.

76 Directive 2001/65/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 27 September 2001 amending Directives 78/660/EEC, 83/349/EEC and 86/635/EEC as regards the valuation rules for the annual and consolidated accounts of certain types of companies as well as of banks and other financial institutions. OJ L283/28 of 27.10.2001.

2.8 The Directive must be implemented by 1 January 2005. It is not directly applicable and must be implemented through amendments to the Companies Act 1985 ("the 1985 Act"), the Building Societies Act 1986 ("the 1986 Act") and the Building Societies (Accounts and Related Provisions) Regulations 1998 ("the 1998 Regulations").

2.9 In a number of places, the Modernisation Directive gives Member States options on how to implement it. The Government's general approach to implementing the Directive is to facilitate greater convergence between UK accounting standards and IAS, without imposing unnecessary burdens.

The IAS Regulation

2.10 Regulation (EC) No. 1606/2002 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 19 July 2002 on the application of International Accounting Standards⁷⁷ introduces important changes, which will directly affect the way in which certain undertakings across the EU prepare their financial statements. Companies and building societies governed by the law of a Member State, whose securities are admitted to trading on a regulated market in any Member State in the EU ("publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities"), will be required to prepare their consolidated accounts on the basis of accounting standards issued by the IASB that are adopted by the European Commission. It will apply to financial years commencing on or after 1 January 2005. The Government also proposes that such undertakings should be permitted to prepare their individual accounts, and all other companies and building societies should be permitted to prepare their individual and consolidated accounts, in accordance with adopted IAS.

2.11 For companies, the implementation of the IAS Regulation is being taken forward through the same Statutory Instrument as these accounting amendments. For building societies, the implementation of the IAS Regulation is being taken forward with these accounting amendments across two Statutory Instruments. In both cases, it is the subject of a separate Regulatory Impact Assessment.

Dividends

2.12 As part of the DTI consultation on implementing the Fair Value Directive⁷⁸ for companies, the Government proposed to amend the 1985 Act so that companies would no longer be required to show dividends that did not represent a liability at year-end in the profit and loss account. The proposed amendment attracted considerable comment. Many consultees did not support the amendment as proposed, and there were a number of alternative suggestions.

⁷⁷ L243/1 of 11 September 2002.

⁷⁸ Fair Value Accounting, URN 03/960, June 2003.

2.13 The Government has taken account of these comments and now proposes a revised amendment. Rather than paid and proposed dividends, companies will be required to show dividends paid (other than those for which a liability existed immediately preceding the balance sheet date) or liable to be paid. In the notes to the accounts, companies will be required to show the aggregate amount of any dividends proposed before the date of approval of the accounts, which have not otherwise been shown in the profit and loss account.

The ASB's Convergence Programme

2.14 In the UK, accounting standards issued by the Accounting Standards Board (ASB) apply to all UK companies and building societies; they are also used by a variety of other entities. The ASB and IASB standards are in many cases very similar, although there are also a number of differences. The ASB's standards will continue to apply to all UK companies and building societies and certain other reporting entities that do not report under the IAS Regulation (whether directly or by extension). The ASB does not believe it is a credible option, except in the short term, to retain two different sets of standards in use in the UK. It therefore aims to bring UK standards into line with IASB standards. It will be issuing a consultation paper shortly setting out proposals for achieving this.

Other Entities

2.15 The amendments to be made to the 1985 Act by the regulations will, unless contrary provision is made, apply automatically to Limited Liability Partnerships (LLPs) and to certain banking and insurance undertakings (including certain industrial and provident societies and friendly societies). These entities have been included in the preparation of this Regulatory Impact Assessment.

(iv) Risk Assessment

2.16 The Government is required to implement the Modernisation Directive. Failure to implement the changes required by the Directive would result in infraction proceedings being brought against the UK and would prevent companies and building societies from following up-to-date accounting requirements. Failure to implement those proposals not required by the Modernisation Directive would prevent companies and building societies from following up-to-date accounting practices.

3. Options

3.1 There are numerous permutations for implementing the provisions of the Modernisation Directive and other accounting amendments. For simplicity, only the two main overarching options of “do nothing” and full implementation are discussed.

Option 1:

Do nothing.

3.2 It is not feasible to “do nothing” for many of the accounting amendments, as that option would lead to infraction proceedings being brought against the UK for failure to implement the Modernisation Directive.

Option 2:

Implementation of the accounting amendments: to comply with the requirements to implement the Modernisation Directive; to reflect best practice in audit reporting; and to enable companies and building societies to follow up-to-date accounting practices.

3.3 Option 2 is broken in to 5 subsections a-e, which are discussed in detail below.

a. Amendments to consolidated accounts to facilitate alignment with IAS 27.

3.4 This paragraph refers to companies only. Under the existing provisions of the 1985 Act a parent company which is itself a wholly-owned subsidiary of a non-EU parent company (an intermediate parent company) is required to prepare consolidated accounts, even if electing to follow IAS and meeting the exemption criteria of IAS 27 (Consolidated Financial Statements and Accounting for Investments in Subsidiaries). Regulation 4 of the companies Regulations aligns the exemptions from preparation of consolidated accounts more closely with those in IAS 27 by implementing a previously unexercised Member State option in the Seventh Directive. Article 11 of the Seventh Directive gives Member States an option to exempt intermediate parent companies from the requirement to prepare consolidated accounts, if that company is a subsidiary of another undertaking not governed by the law of an EEA State, providing certain conditions are fulfilled. One of the more significant criteria is that the exempted parent must be included in a consolidation of a larger body of undertakings drawn up in accordance with the Seventh Directive or in a manner equivalent thereto. Given that the Modernisation Directive seeks to remove conflicts between the Directives and IAS, we would expect that consolidated accounts drawn up on the basis of IAS would generally meet this criterion.

3.5 Article 14 of the Seventh Directive (enacted in section 229(4) of the 1985 Act) provides for the exclusion of an undertaking from the consolidated accounts of the parent if its activities are so incompatible with those of the parent that inclusion would fail to meet the requirement to give a true and fair view of the undertakings included therein, taken as a whole. In practice this exclusion is rarely used. This provision is in conflict with IAS 27, which does not permit any exclusion on the grounds of incompatible activities. Regulation 5 of the companies Regulations and regulation 2 of the building societies Regulations implement Article 2.6 of the Modernisation Directive by deleting Article 14 of the Seventh Directive.

3.6 Under IAS 27, an undertaking is a subsidiary undertaking if it is controlled by a parent, irrespective of the existence of an interest in the capital of the undertaking. Regulation 9 of the companies Regulations implements Article 2.1 of the Modernisation Directive by repealing the provision in section 258(4) of the 1985 Act that requires a participating interest to exist in order for an undertaking to be a subsidiary.

b. Amendments to the audit report of individual companies, building societies and groups.

3.7 Audit reports currently differ across Member States. Articles 1.15 and 1.18 of the Modernisation Directive seek to achieve greater harmonisation and reflect best practice in the format and content of audit reports. Audit reports prepared in accordance with UK Statement of Auditing Standards 600 already conform very closely to the requirements of the Modernisation Directive.

3.8 One of the changes is that, in future, the auditors will need to identify the financial reporting framework applied in the preparation of accounts (i.e. whether by IAS or UKGAAP).

3.9 Article 1.16 of the Modernisation Directive requires disclosure, whenever non-statutory accounts (eg: interim accounts) are published, of whether the auditors have drawn attention in their report to any matter by way of emphasis, without qualifying the audit report, as well as of whether the audit report was qualified or unqualified.

3.10 Regulations 6, 7 and 8 of the companies Regulations and Articles 5, 6 and 7 of the building societies Order implement Articles 1.15, 1.16 and 1.18 of the Modernisation Directive concerning the audit report of individual companies and building societies and also implement Article 2.11 concerning the audit report of groups.

c. Presentation of items within the format of accounts.

3.11 This paragraph refers to companies only. Paragraph 2 to Schedule 2 of the Regulations (and corresponding provisions in Schedules 3, 5 and 6 to the Regulations) amends paragraph 3(7) of Schedule 4 to the 1985 Act by replacing the requirement for companies to show in the profit and loss account paid and proposed dividends as separate items, with a requirement to show dividends which are paid or liable to be paid at the balance sheet date. The amount of any proposed dividend is nonetheless important to shareholders and other users of accounts. Paragraph 3(7A) of Schedule 1 therefore introduces a new requirement for companies to disclose in the notes to the accounts the aggregate amount of dividends proposed before the date of approval of the accounts (to the extent not included in the profit and loss account).

3.12 Article 1.2 of the Modernisation Directive gives Member States the option to permit or require the presentation of amounts within items in the profit and loss account and balance sheet to have regard to the substance of the reported transaction. Paragraph 3 of Schedule 2 (and corresponding provisions in Schedules 3, 5 and 6) of the companies Regulations and regulation 6 of the building societies Regulations amend the existing requirements of the 1985 Act and the 1998 Regulations by requiring that the presentation of items within the accounting formats have regard to their economic substance.

d. Fair value of investment property, living animals and plants.

3.13 The Fair Value Directive amended the Accounting Directives to permit certain financial instruments to be recorded at fair value in accordance with IAS 39 Financial Instruments Recognition and Measurement. Article 1.12 of the Modernisation Directive gives Member States the option to extend the use of fair value accounting to other asset categories. Following adoption of IAS 40 Investment Property and IAS 41 Agriculture on investment property and living animals and plants the Government has decided to permit the relevant categories of assets to be fair valued in both individual and consolidated accounts. Paragraphs 6 to 8 of Schedule 2 (and corresponding provisions in Schedules 3, 5 and 6) of the companies Regulations and regulation 7 of the building societies Regulations implement this Member State option.

e. Amendments to the Directors' Report of individual building societies and groups.

3.14 Articles 1.14, 1.17 and 2.10(a) of the Modernisation Directive require directors' reports to contain a fair review of the building society's position, including an analysis of the risks and uncertainties faced, in order to give greater transparency and precision of reporting on performance on financial and non-financial matters. Articles 3 and 4 of the building societies Order implement these provisions.

3.15 The requirements relating to the directors' report in relation to companies are being taken forward with proposals for the Operating and Financial Review, which will shortly be the subject of a separate consultation and Regulatory Impact Assessment.

3.16 The Governments considers there are no risks to options 2a to e and seeks the views of consultees on the risks of these options.

4. Benefits

Option 1:

4.1 There are no benefits in choosing Option 1. To do nothing would prevent companies from following the most up-to-date accounting practices.

Option 2a to e:

4.2 Option 2a implements a Member State option in the Seventh Directive that has not previously been implemented (see paragraph 3.4 above).

This will allow the requirement to prepare consolidated accounts to be more closely aligned with IAS 27. The Government estimates that there may be some 500 companies who will benefit from these changes, with savings in accountancy staff time in not having to prepare consolidated accounts. Aligning accounting practices with IAS will increase comparability, consistency and transparency of accounts.

4.3 Option 2b makes amendments to the audit report of individual companies, building societies and groups. This will more closely align the requirements of the 1985 Act and the 1986 Act with current practice in audit reporting.

4.4 Option 2c makes amendments to the presentation of items within the format of accounts. These amendments facilitate the convergence of UK accounting standards with IAS bringing the benefits of alignment with IAS previously described. It is also important that formats do not create excessive rigidity and become an obstacle to presenting items in the most meaningful way.

4.5 Option 2d will facilitate use of up-to-date accounting practices by allowing companies and building societies to use fair value accounting for investment property and biological assets facilitating convergence with IAS.

4.6 Option 2e will facilitate greater transparency and reporting on performance on financial and non-financial matters. The directors' report will provide additional information encouraging members to exercise effective and responsible control.

4.7 The overall benefits of Options 2a to e are that they will allow company and building society law to reflect the requirements of the Modernisation Directive, reflect current best practice in audit reporting, and allow companies and building societies to follow up-to-date accounting practices.

Business Sectors Affected

4.8 There are currently approximately 1.1 million active companies on the register at Companies House and 63 building societies on the register at the Financial Services Authority. The Government estimates that Option 2a will only affect some 500 of the companies that prepare consolidated accounts. Option 2b will affect all companies and building societies that require an auditors' report. However, in practice, auditors already carry this out although not required under the 1985 Act. These changes simply reflect best practice. Option 2c will affect all companies and, where applicable, building societies, by changing the presentation of items in the format of accounts. Option 2d is optional; a company or building society in any business sector may choose to use fair value accounting for investment property and biological assets, but none will be required to do so. Option 2e will affect all building societies by introducing new requirements for the directors' report.

4.9 The proposal will particularly affect accounting firms in that they will need to take account of the change in accounting practice and train staff accordingly. There are over 64,000 UK businesses or firms operating primarily in the accounting area.

Issues of Equity and Fairness

4.10 The Department considers that the proposals will be neutral in their effect and the changes will not bring disproportionate benefits or have disproportionate effects on particular groups.

5. Costs

(i) Compliance costs

Option 1:

5.1 There would be no compliance costs on companies and building societies in the "do nothing" option.

Options 2a to e:

5.2 For Option 2a there will be a small training cost for accountants and accountancy staff and minimal IT costs. However, any costs should be outweighed overall by the benefits of time and costs saved by those companies who are able to take advantage of the exemption from having to prepare consolidated accounts.

5.3 Option 2b has minimal cost, as those requirements are a reflection of best practice already in use.

5.4 There will be a small training and IT cost to Option 2c. The amendments are not intended to make any generic changes in the presentation of specific items in the accounts. The changes will clarify the balance sheet and profit and loss formats specified by the 1985 Act and the 1986 Act by requiring that the presentation of items within the accounting formats have regard to their economic substance.

5.5 Option 2d will have a cost in the training of staff and updating of IT systems for those companies that decide to take up the fair value option. We estimate that cost to be in the region of £600 per company or building society. (1 day's training at £500 plus cost of staff time at £100).

5.6 Building societies are already required to prepare a directors' report. Option 2e will increase the costs associated with this. Costs relating to business risk assessments and identifying key performance indicators will be greater for those building societies that need to introduce systems in order to meet the new requirements. It is difficult to get a hard idea of what impact the revised audit requirement would have and what additional work auditors would carry out in order to arrive at an opinion on the consistency of the directors' report with the annual accounts. We estimate the cost of preparing a directors' report to increase by an average of £1,000, although this would vary according to the size of the building society.

5.7 The Government welcomes comments from respondents on the costs of these options.

(ii) Other costs

5.8 The Government considers that there are no costs imposed on sectors other than business. These proposals will only affect companies, LLPs and those in the banking and insurance sectors.

(iii) Costs for a typical business

5.9 For Options 2a to c there would be a minimal cost in training staff in the accountancy sector and in-house accountants, and in updating IT. Option 2d is not a requirement on businesses, but for those that choose to take it up, there will be a larger training and IT cost. However, for many businesses, it will be difficult to separate these costs from costs resulting from other accounting developments: the Fair Value Directive; increased use of IAS; and the ASB's convergence programme.

6. Consultation with small business:

The Small Firm's Impact Test

6.1 The Government considers that the proposals to implement the Modernisation Directive will have little or no cost implications for small businesses.

6.2 Small businesses have no requirements to prepare group accounts. Where they choose to prepare group accounts, it is expected that no material cost will be imposed by the proposed amendments. They are not required by the 1985 Act to have their accounts audited. Where they do so, it is expected that no material cost will be imposed by the proposed amendments. Small businesses are likely to be affected by the proposed amendments on the presentation of items within the format of accounts, but any additional cost should be minor.

6.3 The Government particularly welcomes comments on the impact of the proposal on small businesses.

7. Competition Assessment

7.1 The proposals have the potential to affect all public and private companies, building societies and LLPs in all markets. It is not anticipated that the proposal will: affect some of those businesses more than others; affect market structure; change the number or size of those businesses; lead to higher set-up costs for those businesses; or lead to higher on-going costs, than at present. The main business sector identified as being affected by this change is the accounting sector.

8. Enforcement and Sanctions

8.1 In Great Britain there is already a well-regarded enforcement regime in place for ensuring that financial statements meet the requirements of existing legislation. In addition to criminal penalties, currently the Financial Reporting Review Panel (FRRP) has legal authority to review companies' accounts and if necessary to go to court to compel a company to revise its accounts. The FRRP shares this responsibility with the Secretary of State. By administrative agreement the FRRP deals with the accounts of large public and private companies, and the Secretary of State (through Companies House) with the rest.

8.2 In terms of building societies, the 1986 Act and subsequent Regulations contain a number of requirements on accounting and auditing. Breaches of the most important of these requirements are criminal offences for which both the building society and any of its officers in default can be prosecuted and fined. Building societies are also subject to supervision and regulation by the Financial Services Authority. The FSA receives a copy of each society's annual accounts and has a flexible range of sanctions at its disposal to ensure compliance with the statutory requirements.

9. Monitoring and Review

9.1 The EU Contact Committee on the Accounting Directives will keep the Accounting Directives under review and consider the need for further changes.

10. Consultation

(i) Within Government

10.1 The Department of Trade and Industry and HM Treasury have consulted with the Small Business Service, the Inland Revenue, Companies House, the Department for Enterprise, Trade and Industry in Northern Ireland and the Financial Services Authority.

(ii) Public consultation

10.2 In March 2004, the Department of Trade and Industry and HM Treasury published a consultation document on the Modernisation Directive/IAS Infrastructure. Approximately 800 businesses, professional bodies, representative organisations and individuals were notified of the consultation. The consultation document is available on the DTI's Internet site, and printed copies are available on request. The deadline for comments is 2 July 2004.

10.3 The Government consulted on proposals to change the requirements for companies on how dividends are shown in the accounts as part of the consultation on Fair Value in June 2003. Responses to the consultation have informed the Government's decision and are reflected in the proposals for dividends detailed at paragraphs 2.12, 2.13 and 3.11 above.

Summary and Recommendation

11.1 The table below shows a summary of the costs and benefits of the proposal:

Option	Total cost per annum	Total benefit per annum
1. "The do nothing option"	None	None
2a. Amendments to the consolidated accounts to facilitate alignment with IAS.	Minimal training and IT	Removes conflict between 1985 Act and IAS. Saving accountancy staff time.
2b. Amendments to the audit report of individual companies, building societies and groups.	Insignificant costs as changes reflect best practice currently in use.	Company and building society law will reflect best practice.
2c. Presentation of items within the format of accounts.	Small training and IT cost.	Changes will clarify the balance sheet and profit and loss formats in the 1985 Act.
2d. Fair value of investment property, living animals and plants.	£600 per company or building society cost in the training of staff, plus updating of IT systems.	Will facilitate use of up-to-date practices.
2e. Amendments to the directors' report of individual building societies and groups	£1000 per building society on average in preparing additional information for the directors' report	Greater transparency and reporting on performance on financial and non-financial matters.

11.2 The Government recommends Options 2a to e. These Options will allow company and building society law to reflect the requirements of the Modernisation Directive, reflect current best practice in audit reporting, and enable companies and building societies to follow up-to-date accounting practices.

Draft final Regulatory Impact Assessment on the exercise of Member State Options in the International Accounting Standards (IAS) Regulation

1. Proposal

1.1 The Companies Act 1985 (International Accounting Standards and Other Accounting Amendments) Regulations 2004 and the Building Societies Act 1986 (International Accounting Standards and Other Accounting Amendments) Order 2004.

2. Purpose and intended effect

(i) Objective

2.1 The objective of the proposal is to increase comparability, consistency and transparency of accounts, while keeping the burden on business to a minimum.

2.2 Regulation (EC) No. 1606/2002 of the European Parliament and of the Council of Ministers of 19 July 2002 on the application of IAS (The “IAS Regulation”) requires publicly traded groups and other undertakings with listed securities to prepare their consolidated accounts in accordance with adopted IAS. In addition, all companies and building societies will be permitted to prepare their individual financial statements, and non-publicly traded groups and other undertakings without listed securities will be permitted to prepare their consolidated accounts, in accordance with UK Generally Accepted Accounting Practice (UKGAAP) or in accordance with IAS issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) and adopted by the European Commission.

2.3 For publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities, adherence to adopted IAS may help to reduce the cost of capital because their accounts will be more accessible to potential investors across the EU and worldwide. For potential investors, creditors and other users of financial statements, adopted IAS will provide a consistent accounting framework to facilitate comparison of the performance and prospects of companies and building societies across the EU. For non-publicly traded companies and building societies without listed securities, adopted IAS may in some cases reduce barriers to growth by allowing them to prepare their accounts under IAS prior to application for listing.

2.4 In the UK, the Accounting Standards Board's (ASB) accounting standards apply to all companies and building societies. ASB and IASB standards are in many cases very similar, although there are also a number of differences. The ASB does not believe it is a credible option, except in the short term, to retain two different sets of accounting standards in the UK. It therefore aims to bring UK standards into line with IASB standards. Therefore, companies and building societies which choose to continue to prepare their accounts under UK GAAP may nonetheless be applying standards which are very similar to adopted IAS.

(ii) Devolution

2.5 Responsibility for company law matters lies with the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry and for building society law matters with the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Company and building society law is a reserved area under the Scottish and Welsh devolution legislation and therefore any resulting changes to company and building society legislation will also apply in Scotland and Wales. In Northern Ireland, matters arising from the proposal would normally be the responsibility of the Northern Ireland Executive Ministers. Whilst the Northern Ireland Assembly and Executive are suspended, these functions will be discharged by the Northern Ireland Departments subject to the direction and control of the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland.

(iii) Background

2.6 During 1999, the European Commission published a communication on "Financial Services: Implementing the Framework for Financial Markets: Action Plan". In March 2000, at the Lisbon European Council, Ministers of Member States concluded that, in order to accelerate completion of the internal market for financial services, steps should be taken to enhance the comparability of financial statements by 2005.

2.7 Consequently, in February 2001 the European Commission published a proposal for a Regulation on the application of IAS in the EU, as a key element of its Financial Services Action Plan. It aimed to harmonise financial reporting in the EU on the basis of globally agreed accounting standards by 2005.

2.8 The IAS Regulation was adopted on 7 June 2002. It requires publicly traded companies and other undertakings with listed securities governed by the laws of a Member State to prepare their consolidated accounts on the basis of accounting standards issued by the IASB and adopted by the European Commission, from 1 January 2005.

2.9 The IAS Regulation contains options allowing Member States to permit or require:

- publicly traded companies and other undertakings with listed securities to prepare their individual accounts in accordance with adopted IAS;
- some or all non-publicly traded companies and other undertakings without listed securities to prepare their consolidated and/or individual accounts in accordance with adopted IAS.

2.10 For companies covered by the IAS Regulation and any extension to it, adopted IAS will replace all the detailed accounting provisions of the Accounting Directives⁷⁹. These provisions have been transposed into British legislation, mostly in schedules to the Companies Act 1985 and in the Building Societies Act 1986 and regulations made under it. The effect of the IAS Regulation is that adopted IAS will be directly applicable and will have the force of law in each Member State. The IAS Regulation does not require legislative action by the Member State to transpose it into domestic law. In Great Britain it will directly supersede all the detailed accounting provisions of the Companies Act 1985 and the Building Societies Act 1986 for the companies and building societies to which the IAS Regulation applies. However, legislation is required to permit the companies and building societies to whom the Regulation is being extended the choice of using adopted IAS.

(iv) Risk Assessment

2.11 Not extending the application of the IAS Regulation, at least to some companies and building societies, could create an artificial barrier to growth. For example, non-publicly traded companies and building societies without listed securities to which the IAS Regulation did not apply might be deterred from obtaining admission to trading on a regulated market by the need to restate their past accounts to adopted IAS to provide the necessary three year record. It would also be more complicated for publicly traded parent companies and building societies with listed securities to prepare group accounts if they and their subsidiary companies were unable to prepare their individual accounts to adopted IAS.

2.12 On 10 December 2003, the Chancellor announced in his Pre-Budget Report that those companies that choose to use IAS in their individual accounts will be able to use those accounts as the starting point for their tax computations, and will not have to prepare separate UK GAAP accounts just for tax purposes. This will also apply to building societies.

3. Options

3.1 There are many permutations of the Member State options for extending the application of the IAS Regulation, from no extension, through extension to companies and building societies of certain types, size, or business sector, to full extension to all companies and building societies. These options can be either permissive or mandatory. The main options are listed below:

Option 1: No extension to the application of the IAS Regulation.

⁷⁹ The 4th and 7th Directives on the annual and consolidated accounts of companies (Directives 78/660/EEC and 83/349/EEC respectively); the Directive on the annual and consolidated accounts of insurance undertakings (Directive 91/674/EEC); and the Directive on the annual and consolidated accounts of banks and other financial institutions (Directive 86/635/EEC)

3.2 The risks of not extending the application of the IAS Regulation are discussed at paragraph 2.11 above.

Option 2(i): Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to the individual accounts of publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities.

3.3 It would be more complicated to prepare group accounts if the parent company or building society accounts were prepared under UK GAAP while consolidated accounts were prepared under adopted IAS.

Option 2(ii): Option 2(i) plus extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to the individual accounts of subsidiaries of publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities.

3.4 The risks of not extending the application of the Regulation to the individual accounts of subsidiary companies are similar to those discussed for parent company and building society accounts at paragraph 3.3 above.

Option 2(iii): Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to the individual accounts of publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities that do not produce consolidated accounts.

3.5 Not extending the application of the Regulation to these companies and building societies may disadvantage them and hamper comparability, especially if their competitors on home or overseas markets could prepare accounts using adopted IAS.

Option 2(iv): Options 2(i) to 2(iii) plus extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to large and medium-sized non-publicly traded companies and building societies without listed securities (all companies above those small companies that could apply the ASB's Financial Reporting Standard for Smaller Entities (FRSSE) and equivalent sized building societies).

3.6 A two-tier accountancy profession already exists where accountants dealing with medium, large and listed businesses have the specialist knowledge to prepare complex accounts, while accountants working with small businesses are more used to dealing with simple accounts. This option may have the unintended consequence of exacerbating this split.

Option 2(v): Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to all companies and building societies.

3.7 If this option was pursued on a mandatory rather than permissive basis, it could increase the burden on small companies and building societies. IAS has many reporting requirements that are more suitable for larger businesses, and there is currently no international equivalent of the ASB's reporting standard for small companies (the FRSSE).

Option 2(vi): Sector specific option: Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to companies and building societies prudentially regulated under the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000.

3.8 Extending only to this particular sector may disadvantage other businesses and hamper comparability if their competitors on home or overseas markets could prepare accounts to adopted IAS.

4. Benefits

Option 1:

4.1 The benefit to business in not extending application of the IAS Regulation is that no cost burden will fall on companies and building societies other than those who will be required by the IAS Regulation to use adopted IAS in the preparation of their consolidated financial statements.

Options 2(i), 2(ii), 2(iii), 2(iv), 2(iv) and 2(vi):

4.2 A benefit of extension generally is that for companies and building societies that do business or seek capital across borders compliance with adopted IAS would make their accounts more comparable with those of their competitors in IAS countries. This comparability would assist shareholders, analysts and other users of accounts. There could also be cost savings as a result of not having to prepare different accounts according to different national standards.

4.3 A benefit of extension for options 2(i) and (2ii) is that groups of companies and building societies would not have to prepare their accounts using two accounting methods. Both individual and consolidated accounts and would be prepared in accordance with adopted IAS.

4.4 A benefit of extension for option 2(v) is that it would not create a barrier to growth, in that small companies and building societies would not be faced with the need to change their accounting systems completely when they got above a certain size. If implemented on a mandatory basis, it would also provide full comparability of all accounts. There would be a single set of accounting standards, which would have the advantages of simplicity, certainty and transparency.

4.5 Extension on a permissive rather than mandatory basis for any of the options has the benefit of minimising burdens on business. There will be costs for a company and building society in switching to IAS. A permissive approach would mean that companies and building societies can switch to IAS when it best suits their own circumstances, and when they judge that the benefits outweigh the costs.

4.6 When consulting on the options⁸⁰ we requested that respondents consider the costing of benefits to using adopted IAS and provide estimates as to these benefits. Those respondents who commented on the benefits were not able to quantify them.

Business Sectors Affected

4.7 This proposal will potentially affect all companies and building societies in Great Britain. There are currently approximately 1.1 million active companies on the register at Companies House and 63 building societies on the register at the Financial Services Authority. It is not possible to say how many of these will choose to prepare their accounting in accordance with adopted IAS.

Issues of Equity and Fairness

4.8 The Government considers that the proposal will not bring disproportionate benefits or have disproportionate effects on particular groups.

5. Costs

(i) Compliance costs

Option 1:

5.1 If the application of the IAS Regulation is not extended, there will be no cost to businesses other than that falling on those already covered by the IAS Regulation. Any cost on shareholders, analysts and other users of accounts (such as investors, creditors and enforcement bodies) of having to be familiar with two sets of accounting regimes for investment or compliance purposes arises from the IAS Regulation itself rather than any extension to it.

80 International Accounting Standards, a consultation document on the possible extension of the European Regulation on International Accounting Standards, 30 August 2002, DTI, URN 02/1158

Options 2(i) & 2(ii) (Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to the individual accounts of publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities and to the individual accounts of their subsidiaries) – on a mandatory basis:

5.2 The additional cost of extending the application of the IAS Regulation to the individual accounts of publicly traded companies and building societies with listed securities and the individual accounts of subsidiaries should be minimal. These companies would need to prepare underlying accounting data in accordance with adopted IAS in order for the parent company or building society to prepare the group accounts already covered by the IAS Regulation.

5.3 Our best estimate is that for these categories of company and building society, a decision to prepare accounts in accordance with adopted IAS could be broadly neutral in cost terms. Groups whose parent company is publicly traded or whose parent building society has listed securities would incur ongoing costs in maintaining capability in two different accounting frameworks if they were unable to use adopted IAS in their individual and subsidiary accounts. However, switching to adopted IAS for these accounts would also require a one-off investment to restate comparative figures, re-design systems and procedures and adapt to different disclosure requirements. Also, some ongoing costs might arise as a result of adopted IAS's different requirements for subsidiary companies (e.g. the requirement to prepare a cash flow statement for each subsidiary).

Options 2(iii), 2(iv), 2(v) & 2(vi) (Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to all companies and building societies excepting Options 2(i) and 2(ii)) – on a mandatory basis:

5.4 There will be a one-off cost for companies and building societies choosing to comply with the IAS Regulation. Companies and building societies will have to change the basis on which they prepare their accounts, entailing changes to accounting systems. Changes to IT systems would be required, but we do not currently have estimates for these.

5.5 There will be one-off training costs for staff in being instructed in the standards and in interrogating the data in order to compile accounts to a different accounting regime. Anecdotal evidence suggests that small companies and building societies may require 1 person to be trained for 2 days. Medium to large companies and building societies may require 2 staff to be trained for between 3 and 5 days. This gives the following estimates:

Cost of training course	£750 per day (cost of a one day training package on IAS)
Cost of staff time per day	£100 per day (assuming staff pay of £25,000 per annum approximately)

5.6 We estimate the training costs for small companies may be approximately £1,700 per business (or £1,467m $((£750 \times 2 + £100 \times 2) \times 863,000)$ for the sector as a whole). It is possible that as many as 60% of small businesses may not have in-house accountancy staff and therefore would not incur a training cost. This would reduce the one-off cost burden on this sector to £587m. However, in these cases there may be a need for additional external advice and support. We do not have estimates for their potential cost. It is estimated that the cost for medium to large companies and building societies may be between £5,100 and £8,500 per business (or between £1,280m $(2 \times £750 \times 3 + 2 \times £100 \times 3) \times 251,000)$ and £2,134m $((2 \times £750 \times 5 + 2 \times £100 \times 5) \times 251,000)$ for the sector as a whole).

5.7 There may be additional on-going costs for small companies and building societies in having to comply with adopted IAS. IASB standards are primarily focused on the reporting requirements of large publicly traded companies, which are involved in complex transactions. Some standards are arguably less relevant to small businesses or require them to account for certain transactions in overly complex ways. As yet, there is no equivalent IASB to the ASB's FRSSE, which brings together in one place, with some simplifications, the accounting requirements from each of the full domestic standards as they apply to small businesses.

5.8 We would estimate the extra staff time spent in applying adopted IAS to small companies or building societies to be in the region of 1 person for 2 days per annum. Assuming the cost of staff time to be approximately £100 per day (a salary of £25,000 per annum), the cost of this may be approximately £200 per business (or £172.6m $(£100 \times 2 \times 863,000)$ for the sector as a whole). Again, if as many as 60% of small businesses do not prepare their own accounts, the on-going cost burden would be reduced to £69m for the sector as a whole. However, once again additional cost may be incurred in respect of external advice and support.

5.9 There will also be costs for accountancy firms in a mandatory change to IAS. There are some 64,000 accountancy businesses or firms in the UK. We estimate there will be one-off training costs for two days training for a partner and 2 others in the region of £5,700 (or £365m for the sector as a whole), broken down as follows:

Cost of training course	£750 per day (cost of a one day training package on IAS)
Cost of staff time per day	£100 per day (assuming staff pay of £25,000 per annum approximately)
Cost of partner time £400	(assuming partner pay of £100,000 per annum approximately)

Options 2(v) (Extension of the application of the IAS Regulation to all companies) – on a permissive basis

5.10 If companies and building societies are required to adopt IAS in the preparation of their financial statements compliance costs will be incurred.

Permitting companies and building societies to use adopted IAS will impose no compliance costs. Giving companies and building societies the ability to choose to use adopted IAS in the preparation of their accounts will allow them the flexibility to prepare accounts in accordance with the accounting framework that is best suited to their needs. They will choose to switch to adopted IAS when they judge that the benefits outweigh the costs. There will be a cost to those accountancy firms dealing with publicly traded groups or building societies with listed securities, arising directly from the IAS Regulation. There will be a cost on other accountancy firms in permitting non-publicly traded companies and building societies without listed securities to use adopted IAS. Those firms will need to become familiar with IAS in order to advise their clients on whether to switch. However, the ASB's convergence programme will mean that IAS and UK GAAP are similar, thereby reducing the cost of becoming familiar with IAS.

5.11 When consulting on the options for companies, we requested that respondents consider the cost of using adopted IAS and provide estimates as to the costs. Those respondents who commented on costs said that it was difficult to quantify those costs. The estimates provided varied widely and are summarised below:

- Mandatory extension of IAS will cost small companies an estimated £150 pa.
- Implementation costs likely to exceed £0.5m for the group on whose behalf the respondent answered.
- Consultancy costs are over £1,000 per day and significant assistance will be required.
- Costs of installation and training could be between £200 and £500 per company.
- Costs of Finance function in a large limited company likely to rise by some 10% (£25,000) pa.
- Costs of audit in a large limited company likely to rise by some 10% (£5,000) pa.

(ii) Other costs

5.12 The DTI considers that there are no costs imposed on sectors other than business.

(iii) Costs for a typical business

5.13 The costs for a typical business are discussed in detail at paragraphs 5.4 to 5.10 above.

6. Consultation with small business:

The Small Firm's Impact Test

Stage 1

6.1 Our estimates at paragraphs 5.5 and 5.6 above show that there may be a one-off training cost of £1,700 for a small company should it choose to use adopted IAS in the preparation of its financial statements. It is possible that as many as 60% of small companies may not have in-house accountancy staff and therefore would not incur a training cost. There will be no cost to small companies if they choose not to use adopted IAS.

Stage 2

6.2 The consultation document and its small firms summary was made widely available. The Small Practitioners Association (SPA), who represent an independent group of small professional practices serving a total of some 90,000 incorporated businesses (the vast majority of which are small) were not in favour of compulsory extension to small companies. The SPA felt there would be little impact on small companies, as few would choose to move to adopt IAS.

6.3 The London Society of Chartered Accountants (with a membership of 30,000) commented that the application of adopted IAS should be extended to all companies on either a voluntary or compulsory basis, dependent on the options. However, the IAS regulation should not be applied to the accounts of small companies (as defined) in the short term until a FRSSE has been developed that is consistent with IAS.

6.4 The Government encouraged several other small business organisations to respond to the consultation but did not receive comments.

7. Competition Assessment

7.1 The proposal has the potential to affect all companies and building societies that choose to prepare their financial statements in accordance with adopted IAS. It is not anticipated that the proposal will: affect some of those businesses more than others; affect market structure; change the number or size of those businesses; lead to higher set-up costs for those businesses; or lead to higher on-going costs, than at present.

7.2 The main business sector identified as being affected by this change is the accounting sector.

8. Enforcement and Sanctions

8.1 In Great Britain there is already a well-regarded enforcement regime in place for ensuring that financial statements meet the requirements of existing legislation. Currently the Financial Reporting Review Panel (FRRP) has legal authority to review companies' accounts and if necessary to go to court to compel a company to revise its accounts. The FRRP shares this responsibility with the Secretary of State. By administrative agreement the FRRP deals with the accounts of large public and private companies, and the Secretary of State (through Companies House) with the rest.

8.2 In terms of building societies, the Building Societies Act 1986 and subsequent Regulations contain a number of requirements on accounting and auditing. Breaches of the most important of these requirements are criminal offences for which both the building society and any of its officers in default can be prosecuted and fined. Building societies are also subject to supervision and regulation by the Financial Services Authority. The FSA receives a copy of each society's annual accounts and has a flexible range of sanctions at its disposal to ensure compliance with the statutory requirements.

9. Monitoring and Review

9.1 The Government proposes to review the adoption of the IAS Regulation around 2008 and re-evaluate the extension options having regard to developments in the ASB's convergence programme and the IASB's development of an International FRSSE.

10. Consultation

(i) Within Government

10.1 The Department of Trade and Industry and HM Treasury have consulted with the Inland Revenue, The Financial Services Authority, the Small Business Service, Companies House and the Department for Enterprise, Trade and Industry in Northern Ireland.

(ii) Public consultation

10.2 On 2 September 2002, the Department published a consultation document on the possible extension of the IAS Regulation to companies. The consultation was sent to approximately 1,000 businesses, professional bodies, and representative organisations and individuals, and was also made available on the internet. The consultation closed on 26 November 2002. 69 responses were received.

10.3 In March 2004, the Department of Trade and Industry and HM Treasury published a consultation document on the Modernisation Directive/IAS Infrastructure. Approximately 800 businesses, professional bodies, representative organisations and individuals were notified of the consultation. The consultation document is available on the DTI's Internet site, and printed copies are available on request. The deadline for comments is 2 July 2004.

11. Summary and Recommendation

11.1 The table below shows a summary of the costs and benefits of the proposal:

	Approximate number of companies and building societies affected	Cost of mandatory extension of the IAS Regulation (£)	Cost of voluntary extension of the IAS Regulation (£)	Benefit (£)
Option 1	N/A	N/A	N/A	N/A
Option 2 (i)	2,700	Minimal	NIL	Not having to prepare group accounts using different sets of accounting standards
Option 2 (ii)	27,000	NIL	NIL	Not having to prepare group accounts using different sets of accounting standards
Option 2 (iii)	250	£2.1m approx in one-off training costs. There will be one-off IT system costs, which have not yet been estimated.	NIL	Easier comparison across sectors and markets.
Option 2 (iv)	75,000	Between £1,280m and £2.134m approx in one-off training costs. There will be one-off IT system costs, which have not yet been estimated.	NIL	Easier to seek admission to trading on a regulated market. Easier comparison across sectors and markets.
Option 2 (v)	1,100,000	Between £1,867m and £3,601m in one-off training costs. Between £69m and £172.6m in on-going compliance costs. There will be one-off IT system costs, which have not yet been estimated. Costs to accountancy sector £365m.	NIL	Easier comparison across sectors and markets.
Option 2 (vi)	This option has not been costed because of the difficulty in identifying the number of companies covered	NIL

11.2 The DTI recommends option 2(v) on a voluntary basis. The benefits of this option are:

- Parent companies and building societies and subsidiaries in groups will be able to prepare their accounts to one framework of accounting standards.
- Companies and building societies that do business or seek capital across borders would be able to prepare their accounts to adopted IAS for ease of comparison.
- Comparability of accounts will assist, shareholders, analysts and other users of accounts.
- Comparability of accounts will help maintain the attractiveness of British companies and building societies to international investors.
- Costs savings in not having to prepare accounts to different national standards.
- Companies and building societies of different sizes will be able to choose which standard is best suited for their needs.

ANNEX G

Code of practice on written consultations

The following criteria apply to all UK national public consultations, and have been applied to this consultation paper.

- 1. Timing of consultation should be built into the planning process for a policy (including legislation) or service from the start, so that it has the best prospect of improving the proposals concerned, and so that sufficient time is left for it at each stage.
- 2. It should be clear who is being consulted, about what questions, in what timescale and for what purpose.
- 3. A consultation document should be as simple and concise as possible. It should include a summary, in two pages at most, of the main questions it seeks views on. It should make it as easy as possible for readers to respond, make contact or complain.
- 4. Documents should be made widely available, with the fullest use of electronic means (though not to the exclusion of others), and effectively drawn to the attention of all interested groups and individuals.
- 5. Sufficient time should be allowed for considered responses from all groups with an interest. Twelve weeks should be the standard minimum period for a consultation.
- 6. Responses should be carefully and open-mindedly analysed, and the results made widely available, with an account of the views expressed, and reasons for decisions finally taken.
- 7. Departments should monitor and evaluate consultations, designating a consultation co-ordinator who will ensure the lessons are disseminated.

Responses to the consultation should be sent to the address given at paragraph 2.2 of the consultation document. If, however, you wish to make any comments about the handling of this consultation, please contact:
